

Bobby, in Tears, Accepts Present Of $50,000 Home

Greatest Golfer Overcome as Gift Is Made at Athletic Club Dinner by Eugene Black.

5,000 FRIENDS.
HELP SWELL FUND

Committee Will Act With Bob To Aid in Selection of Site and Building Plans.

BY DICK HAWKINS.
Many years ago the late Henry Grady said, "The strength of this nation lies in its homes."
Friday night, under the cruel lights of the Athletic club dining room Robert Tyre Jones, the greatest golfer of all time, stood with tears in his eyes and received from the hand of Eugene Black a token of regard from his friends of Atlanta which carried a mute reference to these words of wisdom uttered by Henry Grady many years ago.
Bob Jones stood at the end of a long table, under the revealing lights of the chandeliers, and accepted an envelope bearing the equivalent of $50,000—a gift from nearly 5,000 of his friends with which to build himself a home.
This consummate of all golf has faced his toughest foe in the wreaths of victory across his brow for many years. He has faced the applause of his friends in victory and defeat. He has carried the name of Atlanta to every corner of the globe but never has he faced such a situation.
His home is filled to overflowing with trophies of his prowess but now as he stands alone in the world of golf, looking down on the rest of the struggling world, he is brought face to face with the realization that his friends are not of the fair weather

Decatur, Ga., November 18.—(Special)—Whether Decatur will abrogate the franchise with the Georgia Power company that has existed since 1903, whereby 5-cent street car fare between here and Atlanta is guaranteed, and agree to accept in lieu thereof the same rate as paid in Atlanta, now 7 cents, with a fleet of busses supplementing the present service, will be settled Saturday by Decatur citizens at the ballot box.

GEORGE REMUS CAUSES UPROAR IN COURT CLASH

Angry Bootlegger Threatens To Punch Nose of Son of Chief Justice Taft.

DEFENDANT GIVEN WARNING BY COURT

Remus Tells Taft's Aide "You Have Drunk My Liquor Not in Pints But in Barrels."

BY PAUL W. WHITE.
United News Staff Correspondent.
Cincinnati, November 18.—The George Remus murder trial reached a violent climax today with Remus challenging Prosecutor Charles P. Taft, II, to a fist fight, and the assistant prosecutor, Carl E. Basler, threatening to punch the defendant's nose.
Personal vilification resounded through the marble halls of the old courthouse, while a crowded courtroom was astonished at the extremes to which Judge Chester R. Shook permitted the wrangle to be carried.
"Oh, if I only had you out in the hall so I could wreck you!" Remus shouted at the son of the chief justice of the United States supreme court.
Basler Takes Hand.
"Get back there or I'll punch you myself," the prosecutor's assistant shot back at the ranting Remus, who seemed intent on making the most of his position as his own chief counsel.
"Bah!" exclaimed Remus. "You are no better than the rest. You have drunk my liquor not in pints, out in barrels."
The courtroom was in an uproar. Bailiffs were leaping to their feet to head off an actual exchange of blows between the attorneys, when Judge Shook, who appeared to be the only calm man in the room, interposed in a quiet and steady voice.
"Mr. Remus," the court said, "I have warned you twice before. I warn you again now that if this occurs again I will take action that will prevent you from serving as your own lawyer."
That ended the argument.
Jury Brought Back.
Remus, his face crimson, retired to his chair, and the jury of 10 men and two women who had been excused during the debate which brought on

Three Atlantans Injured as Plane Falls in Alabama

G. A. Sheeley, Bonnie C. Rowe and J. R. Simpson Are Victims as Ship Crashes Near Tallahassee.

PLANE IS FROM CANDLER FIELD

Internal Injuries Feared for Two as Waco Plunges Several Hundred Feet in Spin.

Montgomery, Ala., November 18.—(AP)—When their airplane fell near Tallahassee about noon Friday, two commercial aviators and a passenger, all of Atlanta, were probably seriously injured. They are: George A. Sheeley, pilot, shock and probable internal injuries; Bonnie C. Rowe, stunt flier, laceration on face and probable internal injuries, and J. R. Simpson, broken jaw and injuries to the spine.
The men were taken from the smashed plane by J. A. Risby, farmer, on whose land the crash occurred, and were taken to a local hospital, in an automobile. All the victims were reported to be too badly shocked to receive close examination. With the exception of Simpson, none of the men are believed to have received broken bones.
According to information received at the hospital, the two aviators, of Candler field, near Atlanta, were en route to Mobile with Mr. Simpson, a passenger. When flying over a hilly section near Tallahassee, the motor of the plane stalled, throwing the machine into a tailspin. Crashing into a rail fence on striking the ground, the machine was torn to splinters.
It was reported that Mr. Rowe threw his body between the instrument board of the plane and Mr. Simpson in an effort to save the passenger from injury.
Sheeley, Rowe and Simpson took off from Candler field in a Waco biplane early Friday morning for a week-end business trip to Mobile, Ala. It was stated at the airport.
The plane had been purchased within the past fortnight by Arthur L. C. Vogel, manager of the Bankers' Reserve Insurance company here, and was being flown by Sheeley as a pilot in Vogel's employ, attendants at the flying field said.
Sheeley is a well known here from his numerous and daring parachute jumps, he having more than 800 successful plunges to his credit during a long career as a stunt flier in many quarters of the country. A native of Buford, Ga., he has made his headquarters in Atlanta for the past two years.
Sheeley is a commercial pilot with two years' experience at Candler field, local pilots said, but it was not definitely known whether he was licensed to fly interstate.
A telephone message from the trio was received Friday afternoon at the Candler airport, saying that the ship had been forced into an emergency landing.

SETTLEMENT SEEN IN U. S.-MEXICAN OIL LAND CASES

Mexico's Supreme Court Rules Law Which Caused All Controversy Is Not Legal.

BY CECIL W. OWEN.
Washington, November 18.—(United News).—Early settlement of the long-standing property rights dispute between the United States and Mexico was considered more hopeful today as a result of the Mexican Supreme Court decision which upheld the American position.
State Department officials expressed hopes that the decision may make possible a new realignment with Mexico, and end the contentious oil law controversy that has disturbed cordial relations between the countries for a decade.
"The decision may open the way for an adjustment of the entire controversy between the two governments, and the department sincerely hopes that this will be the case," said a high state department official.
Issue Not Ended.
From the information which the department has received, the decision was regarded as having the utmost significance. In view of the fact, however, that five separate decisions are required under Mexican custom before a law is declared unconstitutional, it was felt that the ruling does not altogether dispose of the issue.
The fact that yesterday's decision applied only to the case of the Mexican Petroleum company, an American concern, left the constitutionality of the entire Mexican oil laws still undecided. But American interests and state department officials were encouraged by the fact that the court's first ruling on the new petroleum law unanimously supported the American contention that the law is retroactive.
In deciding favorably on the contention of the American company, it was hoped that the Mexican court had set up a precedent presaging further rulings of similar purport on other cases which are now pending.
Concessions Banned.
Yesterday's decision declared unconstitutional those two sections of the new oil law which required American companies to relinquish their titles to 50-year "confirmatory" concessions and which declared forfeited the property of concerns failing to comply with the law within one year from January 1, 1927, when they became effective.
Oil men protested that the law acted retroactively and was confiscatory as it required them to give up titles to land acquired before the constitution of 1917, which was based on the theory that natural resources belong to the state.
Upholding the American contention, the court restrained the Mexican government from cancelling drilling permits held by the Mexican Petroleum company.

STATE PROBING DEATH OF GIRL AUTO SPEEDER

Attorney General Charlie C. McCall, of Alabama, Arrives on Scene and Takes Charge.

SUICIDE IS CLAIM MADE BY POLICE

Chemical Analysis of Viscera Is Being Made To Determine if Alcohol Is Present.

Calera, Ala., November 18.—(AP)—State investigation of the shooting of Miss Louise Montebello, pretty Berlin girl, who Calera officers allege fired a bullet into her brain following her arrest on charges of speeding and violation of the prohibition law, was augmented today when Attorney General Charlie C. McCall arrived to probe the affair.
While the attorney general visited the scene and questioned witnesses, two state law enforcement officers conferred with the girl's mother, Mrs. Mayhelle Montebello, and others who knew Miss Montebello, in the office of Chief of Police N. S. Stanfill, in Selma.
No Progress Reported.
Meanwhile no progress in the chemical analysis of the viscera sent Dr. R. B. Jones, state chemist at Auburn, had been made. Dr. Jones stated that he had received the organs to determine if alcohol was present, but that no official order for the analysis had been received. His examination is awaiting receipt of an official order.
Two new angles favorable to the suicide theory and two phases tentatively shown a discrepancy in the statement of Police Chief Blake were brought to light today.
Judge L. B. Riddle, probate judge of Shelby county, who investigated the shooting and soon afterwards expressed the opinion that it was a plain case of suicide, related an account of the girl given him by M. T. Hataway, tenant on his farm, who said he witnessed the chase and heard the shots.
Hataway said he was seated on his front porch and about fifty yards from the highway. He told Judge Riddle that he heard the siren and saw the car pass and the police motorcycle go by a moment later. He said he heard a shot and a few seconds later saw the car stop about 150 yards up the road from the house.
He told Judge Riddle that he saw one officer get in the car, saw the

Action by Federal Government Urged In Flogging Cases

U. S. WILL SEIZE BLACKMER FUNDS IN CAPITAL TODAY

Attorneys for Missing Oil Case Witness Have Deposited $100,000 for Test Case.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Atlanta Tribune.)
Washington, November 18.—One hundred thousand dollars deposited in a local bank to the credit of Harry M. Blackmer, millionaire chairman of the Mid-West Refining company, who fled to France rather than testify in the Sinclair-Pull oil conspiracy trial, is to be seized by federal deputy marshals tomorrow morning.
The seizure will be made in accordance with the order issued Wednesday by Justice Frederick L. Siddons summoning Blackmer, now believed to be living in Paris, to appear on January 6 to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court and his $100,000 confiscated under the Walsh act, which provides that penalty for recalcitrant witnesses who take refuge in foreign countries.
Money Deposited.
As soon as word of Justice Siddons' action reached them, George Gordon Battle, former governor of New York, Blackmer's attorney, telephoned District Attorney Peyton Gordon that "$100,000 in cash would be deposited in a Washington bank so the levy could be made conveniently. The money was actually deposited late today, according to Gordon.
It was intimated that Blackmer's attorneys, who propose to attack the constitutionality of the Walsh act, Continued on Page 9, Column 3.

U. S. Intervention Is Demanded by Representative Madden, Republican, of Illinois. SARGENT IS ASKED TO GIVE OPINION

Madden Confers With Acting Attorney General; U. S. Jurisdiction Is Discussed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Atlanta Tribune.)
Washington, November 18.—The question of federal intervention in the Alabama flogging scandals for the purpose of enforcing respect for the constitutional rights and liberties of citizens has been put squarely up to the department of justice.
Armed with accounts of the numerous outrages perpetrated with impunity up to date on negroes and poor whites, Representative Martin B. Madden, republican, of Illinois, called at the department and urged immediate action by United States authorities.
Mr. Madden conferred with Acting Attorney General John Marshall and Assistant Attorney General Oscar R. Lubling. Oliver E. Pagan, the indictment expert, was called into the conference for advice on the questions of federal jurisdiction involved. The upshot of the discussion was an agreement that the matter of the federal intervention should be submitted to Attorney General Sargent upon his return to Washington next week from Vermont where he is directing flood relief activities.
Black Page.
"The outrages described in dispatches from Alabama form one of the blackest pages in American history," said Mr. Madden, upon emerging from the conference at the department of justice.
"It makes the blood boil to read the details of these fiendish persecutions. The state that tolerates such outrages is a disgrace to the rights and liberties of human being guaranteed by our government must hang her head in shame, if she be not shameless."
"I came to the department of justice to see if there is not some recourse to a higher power in behalf of these poor negroes and other victims of bigotry, intolerance, race hatred and organic brutality. These outrages have been taking place with steadily increasing frequency in Alabama and other southern states for years. State authorities have been either unwilling or unable to cope with these law-breakers."
"The attorney general has obtained no assurance of federal action but that it is hopeful that the attorney general, after careful consideration of the facts in these flogging cases, will institute proceedings for federal grand jury indictment of the offenders."
There is considerable difference of opinion among government lawyers concerning the grounds for federal prosecution of the persons who, by duress, succeeded in obtaining title to Arthur Hill's 45-acre farm and driving him from the country. By some of them, it is maintained that the acts in question are not violative of either the fourth or the fourteenth amendments to the constitution.
The fourth amendment guarantees "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches

RAILROADS START WORK ON TRACKS

Steam Shovels Will Begin Operations Monday; Police Department To Close Streets.

Preliminary work preparatory to reposition of railroad tracks over which the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts will be constructed was begun late Friday and steam shovels will be placed in operation Monday, it was announced by B. E. Brooks, of the Brooks Callaway company, contractors on the work.
Pryor street and Central avenue will be closed to traffic while the bridges are under construction and Chief of Police James L. Beavers has been authorized to close the crossings as soon as actual work is begun.
Official sanction of Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power company, to a proposal by which the company would contribute $100,000 towards erection of the improvements, awaits Mr. Arkwright's return to the city Tuesday. He was slated to reach Atlanta from New York Friday, but has been delayed.
Work on the projects will get under full blast Monday despite an attempt to defer it by court entanglements, it was said Friday. R. P. Waldron, a tax payer, through his attorney, Thursday filed suit asking an injunction to prevent start of the work but Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court, declined to grant the injunction and set November 22 as the date for a hearing on the petition.

SOFT COAL STRIKE BEYOND COOLIDGE

President Sees No Way He Can Take Hand in Situation; Will Confer With Mine Leader.

Washington, November 18.—(United News).—The president sees no way by which he might take a hand in the bituminous coal strike situation, the white house said today. President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, is due here for a conference with Coolidge Monday.
It was explained at the white house that Coolidge has several times asked congress for legislation to deal with emergencies in the coal industry but that operators and miners have opposed it and consequently he has no authority for dealing with the present situation.

J. M. ADAMS FREED IN SHOOTING CASE

Defendant Acquitted of Wounding County Officers in Search of Liquor Cache.

J. M. Adams, of Grogan's district, was freed Friday night by a jury in Fulton superior court on charges of having wounded two county policemen, Charles E. Lyle and Claude Webb, in an assault with intent to murder. Hearing before Judge Earl S. Camp, presiding in the absence of Judge G. H. Howard, consumed the entire day, the case reaching the jury about 7 o'clock. The verdict was returned after a short deliberation.
The wings of an owl, a shotgun and some shells were introduced in court as evidence in the case. The defense presented the owl wings in support of its contention that Adams' shotgun had been used to kill the bird the day previous to the shooting of the officers, while the state sought to establish that the gun was the same one used to shoot the officers.
Evidence and testimony was introduced by the state seeking to prove that shells found in the shotgun in Adams' home were exactly similar to shells found where the assault had made his ambush, while the defense countered with testimony to show that a shotgun using similar ammunition was owned by a man living four miles away from the scene of the shooting.
The wounded officers told of being shot near Adams' home on the night of August 24 while searching for liquor in the woods, while Captain John Oliver, of the county police, testified that a shotgun holding a jammed shell was found under a blanket which had been tossed behind a trunk in Adams' home. Captain Oliver said that he experienced considerable difficulty in persuading Adams to produce this gun, which he said, showed signs of having been recently fired. Adams was assisted in the case by Attorney Sam D. Hewlett, of defense counsel, sought to prove that Adams' son used the gun the day before the shooting of the officers to kill an owl. On cross-examination, Mr. Hewlett developed from Officer Webb that the shots had come from the opposite direction from Adams' home. Mr. Hewlett was assisted in the case by A. R. Dorsey, while the prosecution was conducted by Solicitor General John A. Boykin.

Divorce Granted To Helen Mencken; Cruelty Charged

Chicago, November 18.—(United News).—Divorce from Humphrey Bogart, her actor-husband, was granted to Helen Mencken, stage star, today by Judge John L. Sullivan.
Miss Mencken testified Bogart struck her on two occasions during the eleven months they lived together and she was corroborated by her maid.
Bogart was not in court. A settlement of $2,300 was provided for Miss Mencken.

'Tiger' Comes Home To Decatur Street

Tiger Flowers came home to Decatur street Friday.
And Decatur street, the city of a hundred blaring phonographs, of a thousand shuffling, carefree feet, Friday night, amid a cathedral-like stillness, paid homage to her greatest man and planned to give him the most elaborate funeral ever conducted in Atlanta.
Tiger's body arrived at 5:30 o'clock Friday in a silver-plated copper casket inlaid with gold, almost a replica of that in which Florence Mills was buried, and which was said to have cost $10,000.
The body of the negro fighter will lie in state at his recently completed $75,000 home at 1010 Simpson road from 9 o'clock Sunday morning until 9 o'clock Sunday night, to give Decatur street a chance for a last glimpse at its idol.
All that was mortal of Tiger Flowers arrived completely submerged by a flood of floral offerings from ranking members of the ring circles.
Prominently placed over the casket as a huge wreath from Jack Dempsey.
Plans are now on foot, Walk Miller, Tiger's manager, said Friday night, to erect an imposing memorial or monument at his grave. Heading the movement is Gene Tunney, who is being joined by New York fight managers, promoters and fighters. The nature of the memorial will be decided later, Mr. Miller said.
More than 1,000 telegrams from leading lights of the ring profession have poured in on Mr. Miller since the boxer's death. Every fighter Tiger had met, and many he had not, had wired his condolence, Mr. Miller said.
Funeral services will be held noon Monday from the Butler Street Methodist church, of which Tiger was a deacon, and a section of the seats will be reserved for whites who may wish to attend.
Burial will take place at South View cemetery.
Decatur street will lay itself at the feet of its idol to do him homage.

KANSAS FARMERS FLEE FROM BLAST

Residents of Little Town of Jefferson Join Refugees as Plant Is Wrecked by Explosion.

Coffeyville, Kas., November 18.—(AP)—Fleeing as before an invading army, with only a few clothes and household goods hastily assembled, farmers for miles around and residents of the little town of Jefferson, 11 miles northwest of here, left their homes today ahead of a terrific blast which wrecked the plant of the Independent Torpedo company and shook the country for 30 miles around.
Forewarned of the impending explosion at the plant a mile south of Jefferson, school was dismissed quickly and children and residents fled by motor, truck and on foot. In the country north of town, meanwhile, farmers, warned by telephone, began a general exodus for places of safety far from the scene. There were no casualties.
Plant Takes Fire.
The blast of 380 quarts of nitroglycerine came nearly an hour after the plant had taken fire, due to the breaking down of an engine and the resultant explosion of a nitroator.
Towns and cities as far as Parsons, Kan., 20 miles northeast of Jefferson, felt the shock. Residents of Coffeyville, 20 miles northeast, rushed from their homes, fearing an earthquake.
The seven frame buildings of the torpedo plant were wrecked and the fire spread. Flames crept toward the wood and concrete magazine, containing 500 quarts of nitroglycerine, and a more disastrous blast was feared. The fire burned itself out before reaching the storage house, however.
Manager Is Hero.
Clude Howerton, manager of the plant, was hailed as a hero. Realizing the plant could not be saved Howerton ordered all employees to leave and they rushed to Jefferson in a motor truck to spread the warning.
First Howerton went to the school, then to the telephone exchange and from there to business places to spread the alarm.
The magazine containing the 500 quarts of stored explosive stood only 100 feet from the mixing room, where the explosion occurred. Its wood roof was blown off, but its contents did not explode.

EUBANKS RAPPED ON VETO ISSUE

School Board Head Scored by Gann as Seeking "More Power Than Mayor" in Amendments.

Assailing Dr. R. M. Eubanks, president of the Atlanta board of education, "for an effort to exercise more power than the mayor of Atlanta," Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth ward and a member of the school committee of city council, Friday afternoon championed a proposed charter amendment by which the mayor would have authority to veto the school budget and which also would make the chairman of the school committee of city council an ex-officio member of the board.
School Commissioner George Powell, of the ninth ward, opposed the amendments, declaring they would subject the board to "political abuse on the part of an untrained city executive." The debate took place before about 20 members of the Atlanta League of Women Voters at the Chamber of Commerce building.
Mr. Gann's indictment of Dr. Eubanks came incidentally in the discussion in which the speaker scored the board president for an attitude which he claimed is an effort to dictate to city council what it shall do, when the mayor himself would not adopt such a procedure. The "effort" which Mr. Gann referred to was declaring that school board to accept a recommendation of the board that electrical contracts on the first five school projects to be constructed from bond funds be awarded to the Walker Electric company.
Council turned down the recommendation by an overwhelming vote, and sent back an "unofficial" recommendation that the contract be Continued on Page 6, Column 7

GUILTY CONSCIENCE IMPELS ESCAPED CONVICT TO GIVE UP

Haunted by a guilty conscience and impelled by a desire to see his wife and four-year-old son, Jack A. Jones, escape from local police that he was an escaped convict from the Steigman prison farms, near Montgomery, Ala.
Jones was arrested Thursday night at a downtown hotel on a misdemeanor charge, but while being held in jail during the night, he decided to yield to his conscience and confess his identity.
He said that he was convicted in May, 1923, of assault with intent to murder, after, he stated, he shot a man, Fred Stokes, in Birmingham.
He was sentenced to the prison farm for some months ago was released on parole. He violated the parole, he said, by not returning. He came to Atlanta and served the trades of union butcher and barber.

COMMITTEE ASKS BUCKHEAD, EAST POINT LIGHTING

Lighting of Peachtree road from the city limits to Buckhead and of Lee street from the city limits to East Point will be recommended to the Fulton county commission by the county department of public works committee, it was decided Friday afternoon at a meeting of the committee.

The proposal to light these two important thoroughfares involves the placing of powerful street lights at intervals of 300 feet, or little less than a city block apart. Figures presented

GIRL ENDS DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST BROKEN

New York, November 18.—(P)—The $22,000 suit of Miss Clara O'Reilly, of Denver, against William Alexander, wealthy insurance broker, ended suddenly today. Parties to the action announced the suit had been "amicably settled" but did not divulge the terms of settlement.

More easily but he is still on the verge of death, doctors say.

Loren, who was injured by a shot fired by E. F. Kehley, proprietor of a Marietta street restaurant on Halloween night, has, since that time, lain in the hospital at the point of death.

LOSS IS MILLION

Washington, November 18.—(AP)—Under the guiding hand of the Red Cross, whose physical and financial resources already were strained as a result of floods, explosions and other far-flung catastrophes, rehabilitation of the tornado-stricken areas of Washington and near by communities in Virginia and Maryland proceeded rapidly today as surveys went forward definitely to fix the damage.

District of Columbia engineers, after an official inspection, estimated the damage from yesterday's storm in Washington at between $700,000 and $800,000 including the havoc wrought at the naval air station at Anacostia, and the Washington navy yard. Nearly $200,000 was believed to have been the toll of destruction in Alexandria, Va., and Cottage City, Colmar Manor, Hyattsville and other Maryland suburbs.

While more than a hundred persons suffered more or less minor injuries, only eight were reported to have been severely hurt, but none of these was expected to die. Only one death occurred, a woman being struck by lightning while crossing a bridge. About 50 of the injured were Washingtonians, most of whom were treated at their homes.

A dozen or more were cared for at hospitals in Alexandria. Three hundred and seventy-seven buildings and homes were estimated to have been affected in the capital, most of them, however, being only unroofed or having windows or doors smashed.

ALEXANDRIA BEGINS TO REMOVE WRECKAGE.

Alexandria, Va., November 18.—(AP)—Alexandria streets were emerging from their tornado-stricken debris tonight as a hastily mobilized crew of relief workers neared the end of their work.

Damage to 100 homes, factories, warehouses and stores was estimated at $500,000, with approximately 100 persons injured, only two seriously.

Property damage for the most part consisted of unroofed houses, though many flimsy structures in negro residential sections were torn from their foundations. Light, telephone and power lines were broken as the poles were twisted away.

The tornado followed an erratic course across Alexandria toward Washington. Three public school buildings were in the path traversed by the storm but neither was seriously damaged. One pupil was injured by flying glass.

Police fired the Alexandria light infantry, marines and volunteer citizens aided in guarding the streets and bringing order out of chaos.

CHRONIC GROWLERS ARE HIT IN SPEECH OF FLORIDA MAN

Hollywood, Fla., November 18.—(AP)—"Chronic growlers" who create bad conditions where good conditions were before, by talk of bad times," were criticized as Florida's worst enemies in the address of Governor Dwyer, of Tallahassee, before the state realtors in convention here.

"Such talk is nothing less than a cure of pessimism," Dwyer said. "The speaker, an agent of the state department of agriculture, is engaged in the first state-wide agricultural and industrial 'stock-taking' survey ever undertaken by a state."

He cited as typical of the work of "calamity growlers," the result of his investigations in Tampa. "Street talk," there, he said, revealed between 5,000 and 6,000 persons receiving public relief. His survey showed only about 300 families.

PASTOR PREFERS DEATH TO PAY OF SUPERANNUATE

Memphis, Tenn., November 18.—(AP)—Dr. Percy R. Knickerbocker, of Knoxville, told the Memphis conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, that he rather be chloroformed, when I reach the end of my period of active work than live as our old preachers have to live."

He spoke in the interest of the $10,000,000 superannuate endowment the church seeks to raise by 1929.

"Up in Knoxville last Saturday," he said, "I saw the Vandy-Tennessee football game. That cost the two cities $200,000 for two hours' entertainment. Everything we do these days takes money, and the church needs it, too. Every red penny ought to have at least $100 a month until he dies."

WEST VA. GOVERNOR TO RUN FOR SENATE

Washington, November 18.—(AP)—Governor Gore, of West Virginia, who for a short time was secretary of agriculture in President Coolidge's cabinet, indicated after a call at the white house today that he would run for the United States senate next year.

He would seek the republican nomination for the seat now held by Senator Neely, a democrat, whose term expires in March, 1929.

FORDS TO FIGHT SUIT OF LELANDS

Detroit, November 18.—(United News)—Henry Ford paid $1,000,000 he didn't have to on acquiring the Lincoln Motor Car company and he considers that act the limit of his generosity in this particular instance. Edsel Ford, son of the automobile manufacturer, said in a statement today.

The statement issued at Ford's office was in answer to the suit of Henry W. Leland, 85-year-old former president of the Lincoln company, in which he asked for $6,000,000 additional from Ford on behalf of himself and 2,000 minority stockholders.

Leland charged Ford agreed verbally to buy all of the Lincoln stock when he took the plant over from a federal receiver in 1922.

"We bought the assets of the old Lincoln company from the receiver," Edsel Ford's statement said. "No conditions were attached to the transaction and no obligations were imposed upon us to pay either stockholders or creditors."

"We voluntarily paid all general creditors. This additional amount, aggregating more than $1,000,000 was paid purely out of generosity and without any obligation whatsoever."

Ford further insisted that the $8,000,000 paid the receiver was all that the Leland plant was worth.

It is the contention of the Lincoln stockholders and Leland, however, that the company was fundamentally solvent at the time Ford took it over, but lacked cash because of a business depression and sought the receivership and sale to Ford to provide the necessary capital to save the business.

Under these circumstances, Leland insists, Ford agreed to buy the worthless stock which involved loss of $6,000,000 if he failed to live up to the agreement.

Every effort had been made to compromise the case out of court because of the traditional friendship of Leland and Ford.

Edsel Ford's statement today was the first reply to the suit.

SAVANNAH CHURCH CREATES MEMORIAL

Savannah, Ga., November 18.—(AP)—The first "children's corner" to be established in an Episcopal church in Savannah has just been created at St. Paul's church here. It is a memorial to Miss Patty McGlohan, daughter of the pastor, Rev. S. B. McGlohan.

CARDINAL BONZANO IS CRITICALLY ILL

Rome, November 18.—(United News)—John Cardinal Bonzano, former papal legate to Washington and papal legate to the Eucharistic congress held in Chicago last year, is critically ill and will undergo an operation Saturday morning. The operation is described as the only hope of saving his life.

Despite his intense suffering for the last ten days, the primate arranged the affairs of his office and mustered enough strength to drive to the Vatican and tell the pope personally of the seriousness of his condition.

The cardinal is suffering from a tumor in his stomach.

Mother in Coma 652 Hours After Twins Are Born

St. Paul, Minn., November 18.—(United News)—Almost a month ago Mrs. Joseph Dech gave birth to twins a few hours after she suffered a fractured skull in an automobile accident. She regained consciousness last night and saw the babies for the first time.

Birth of the twins and the automobile accident in which Mrs. Dech was injured occurred on October 20. She was unconscious for 625 hours.

Physicians said she probably would recover.

BANKERS' APPEAL COMES UP MONDAY

The bill of exceptions in the case of J. A. Sasser, L. R. Adams and J. D. Russell, former officers of the defunct Bankers' Trust company, will be presented to Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley in his chambers this morning by attorneys for the defendants in a move to appeal the case, it was stated Friday.

Four defendants were tried and convicted several months ago on charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with operation of the chain of banks, and were sentenced by Judge Sibley to terms in the penitentiary and to fines. The case is now being appealed to the circuit court of appeals, and the bill of exceptions which will be presented to Judge Sibley this morning has been in the course of preparation for some time.

Today is the last day for the filing of the bill of exceptions under the time limit allowed by Judge Sibley. Counsel for the defendants have prepared the bill with the cooperation of Clint W. Hager, federal district attorney, in a series of conferences over any items of the record which might be subject to dispute.

Paul J. Baker, the fourth defendant in the case, abandoned his appeal several months ago, surrendered to the custody of federal officers and is now serving his term in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

ESTATE OF TECH STAR LOSES LIFE INSURANCE SUIT

Columbia, S. C., November 18.—(AP) The Philadelphia Life Insurance company will not be required to pay the $25,000 policy held by Richard F. Wright, Georgia Tech football star, who committed suicide May, 1926, by the terms of a directed verdict by Judge Ernest F. Cochran in the suit brought by the estate of young Wright against the insurance company in federal court here. Before entering judgment Judge Wright was a Southern S. C. high school football star.

Dr. A. H. Armstrong, of the Georgia Tech faculty, testified at the trial that notes indicating suicide were found after the young man's death. The insurance company declined to pay the policy on the grounds that it was issued July, 1924, and carried a "suicide clause" operative for two years. The directed verdict was given on motions of both sides.

M'INTOSH PLANE CRASHES IN POLAND

Lemberg, Poland, November 18.—(United News.)—Two English pilots whose plane crashed at Mazan, ten miles from Lemberg, today have been identified by the mayor of Podhajce as Captain R. H. McIntosh and Bert Hunkler, who have not been heard from since Tuesday afternoon when they began a non-stop flight to India.

The mayor said their plane had landed Thursday morning, due to fog at Bialokiernica, and had hopped off again the next morning. While he was not sure at first of the fliers' identity, later he said McIntosh was one of them.

A few hours after taking off from Bialokiernica today, the machine crashed at Mazan. The pilots were uninjured but two farmers were struck by the plane and seriously hurt. The machine was wrecked.

After being brought to Lemberg the pilots, enroute at 11 o'clock tonight for Warsaw.

ATLANTA-AUGUSTA ROAD BODY FORMED

Washington, Ga., November 18.—(Special.)—The organization of an association for paving state route No. 10, one of the most important highways in the state running from Atlanta to Augusta, was effected here this afternoon at a meeting largely attended by delegations from Clarke, Oglethorpe, Wilkes, Elbert, McDuffie, Lincoln and Richmond counties.

The purpose of the association is to promote the work of hard-surfacing the entire route of state highway No. 10 as soon as the work can be done. About 40 miles of the route is already paved with perhaps an equal mileage already permanently located, graded and ready for the paving work to go forward.

Members of the boards of commissioners from each of the counties along the route which have not already agreed to have the contract therefor, announced their readiness to begin work, meeting their work with federal and state aid provided the highway board will include such appropriations in its 1928 budget.

Sandlot Teams Will Clash at Spiller's Today in Loren Leister Benefit Game

Scenes like these will mark the clash on Spiller field this morning of the Peachtree road Terriers and the O'Keefe Panthers, Sandlot league teams, in a benefit game for Loren Leister, wounded Sandlot star who is fighting death bravely at Grady hospital. The grid scene shows two class Sandlot teams at play, and the inset is of Captain Oscar Thompson, of the Peachtree road eleven.

While Loren Leister, the 12-year-old boy who was shot on Halloween night by a stray bullet fired in a downtown brawl, showed improvement Friday at Grady hospital, his companions of the Sandlot league prepared to do battle on the gridiron in order to raise a fund to help pay his medical expenses.

The game will be played at 9:30 o'clock this morning on Spiller field, with the Peachtree Road Terriers and the O'Keefe Panthers arrayed against each other. The two teams are among the classiest of the 105-pound division of the Sandlot organization, and their coaches report they are in fine fettle and equipped with a number of fancy plays sure to provide excellent entertainment for fans.

Admission prices will be 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults. Every cent realized on the game will be given to Loren's family, which is hard-pressed financially to take care of the boy's unexpected and heavy hospital expenses. Use of Spiller field was donated for the encounter and officials will serve without charge. The Parks-Chambers company had tickets printed free for the game, and these will be on sale at Spiller field. Bussey's drug store at Buckhead, E. C. Ellis Drug company in the Peters

TROLLINGER FACES TRIAL ON MONDAY

Fulton county's "murder farm" mystery will come to the attention of superior court Monday morning when the trial of Thomas B. Trollinger on indictments charging murder in the death of Millard Allen and Owen Carruthers is called. It was announced Friday at the solicitor general's office, a decision as to which of the two cases will be tried first will be made Monday morning, it was stated. Allen was slain by Trollinger with a rifle more than a month ago, but the latter was exonerated for the killing at a preliminary hearing on the ground of self-defense. The case was brought up again and Trollinger was indicted when the "murder farm" was exposed by the digging up of the body of Owen Carruthers, negro.

Witnesses in both the Allen and the Carruthers cases have been subpoenaed to appear in Judge G. H. Howard's court Monday morning. In view of the fact that 120 jail cases remain on the calendar for the four weeks of court before adjournment for the Christmas holidays, the solicitor general is considering the matter of requesting the superior court judges to hold an extra court in addition to the two already scheduled for the next few weeks, it was announced Friday.

SPECIAL CLERKS WILL AID IN SALE OF AUTO LICENSES

Special clerks will be on duty in the motor vehicle department of the office of Secretary of State S. G. McLeoden, to aid the public in rating automobiles for which state license tags are sought when the new tags are placed on sale some time during December, it was learned at the office of Secretary McLeoden Friday.

Under the new law the licenses will be sold on a basis of the weight of the car instead of the horsepower, as in the past. Because of the large number of types of cars that must be rated it was decided to put on special clerks to assist in the purchase of tags.

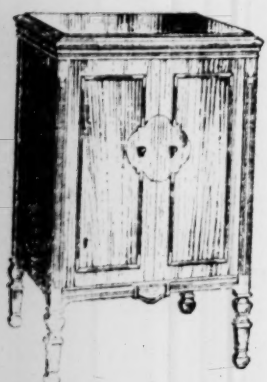

Secretary McLeoden is allowed 15 per cent under the law for expenses of distributing the tags, but he has held the overhead cost thus far to less than 4 per cent each year.

Copies of the new rating book have been sent to all sheriffs, ordinaries and court clerks in the state and to all licensed automobile dealers.

The Amazing Adventures Of Anarchist Aber

By Lawrence Aber

As Told to Ben Coyer, Staff Representative of The Constitution.

Copyright, 1921, by The Constitution.

CHAPTER IX.—FIGHTING IN NICARAUGA.

SYNOPSIS.

In previous installments of his amazing and thrilling narrative, Aber traced his ancestry to the British peerage and told of his birth in 1880 in Wales. Deserting from a British naval schoolship, he roamed the streets of New York for a time and enlisted for the Spanish war. Following the Cuban conflict, Aber went to the Boer war in South Africa and was one of the defenders of Ladysmith.

After the Boer war, Aber shipped around Cape Horn and deserted his ship in the Fiji Islands, joining up with a trading schooner. He turned up in Manila later, and after being involved in a shooting affray, escaped to Sulu, where he professed Mohammedanism and married one of the daughters of the sultan of Sulu. His story tells of leading Moro troops against American soldiers, and of enlisting in the Canadian army and going to France.

After a brief service with the Canadians, Aber came back to America, and then went to Mexico where he became a member of Villa's army. His experiences in Mexico included service in the American troops as a Mexican spy.

Aber tells of his rescue from four sinking ships during the war, and of being ordered to St. Louis, Mo., by the radical organization to aid in a plot to blow up the Mississippi river bridges. The plot failed, however, and the continuous strain of his activities resulted in his being placed in a government hospital. He escaped and went to Peru.

Following a narrow escape from execution for labor agitation in Peru, Aber became mixed up in smuggling on the Pacific coast, escaped to Sulu, when sought in a murder case, and on his return to the states went into alien smuggling between Cuba and Florida.

Havana, Cuba, is one of the biggest rendezvous for revolutionists and radicals in the world. In this city I met compatriots who advised me that a leader was needed for a revolt in Nicaragua, financed by Moscow and an oil company which owns a number of capped wells there. In accordance with plans outlined to me I went to New Orleans, where I took command of a small steamer, ostensibly bound for New York and the junk heap. Our papers were faked.

Stealing down the channel to the Gulf, in the dead of the night we met a number of light boats from which we loaded guns, ammunition and passengers. The passengers included Jew Isaacs, Ellis, Swede and Von Weede, the latter having been a colonel in the German army. We had been enemies, but here we were on a old tub bound for Mexico, and Nicaragua, with adventure in the offing. We made Frontero, Tabasco province, Mexico, and took on a gang of Mexican bandits—thence heading for Bragman's Bluff, Nicaragua, where we met our native army, the members of which had been recruited by red agents previous to our arrival and furnished with little identification cards.

Our mission was to overthrow the incumbent of the president's chair and place our man in it. We believed that we would be able to do so because the army of that country was ill equipped and President Chomorro was hated by the entire population. Still as we soldiers of fortune prepared to unleash our dogs of war, our topics of conversation never touched on the coming conflict but instead we argued problems of science, and let tomorrow take care of itself. Bragman's Bluff was just a saw mill on a jungle coast, but within the next few hours every newspaper reader in America knew that from this point hell had let loose in Central America.

SOON READY FOR ACTION UNDER SACASSA'S BANNER.

Under Sacassa's banner we were soon ready for action. Von Weede commanded 1,200 fighting men fully armed and I was in charge of a detachment of 500. In the world war men were trained for months to fight, but here we only gave them guns and red hands to put on their hats and our army was ready for battle.

On the march two days later we came in sight of Chomorro's army and the war was on. The fight lasted two hours and when the last gun had spoken and the enemy was on the run we had lost ten men killed and 29 wounded but had gained 300 prisoners. Within an hour the prisoners had sworn to help us and we gave them red ribbons and medals on. The next day we reached a village and camped. Meanwhile we had captured a spy on information furnished by one of our Mexicans and in this village we court-martialed him. The court-martial consisted of a few questions and then to save ammunition and to prove that we were devils in human form two Mexicans and myself composed a firing squad. The prisoner cried and tried to lie down, screaming that he didn't know he had done wrong. I told him that we had given the men fair warning and had set down stern rules of faithfulness, and then we shot him at less than ten feet. This was a healthy lesson for our troops, demonstrating to them the penalty for lack of loyalty, but before the campaign was over we had occasion to use a firing squad several other times. At Jacaca we had to execute ten at one time, two of whom were enemy officers acting as spies in our forces. We shot them one by one and it was a pitiful sight. I have seen very few cases where the Latin native takes execution so bravely, but I have never seen but one case where a white man acted like a baby. On another occasion we shot two deserters, one of whom had been a native under-clerk at a coffee plantation and who was said to have been an American citizen. The war ended with our arrival at Managua, the capital. On the way to Managua our army got larger and larger as the local troops deserted to our side.

AMERICAN MINISTER WAS FIRST VISITOR.

My first visitor at our quarters was an American minister, Mr. Dennis, who told me that our fun was over and the marines were on the way. The marines landed and took the situation in hand and Admiral Latimer offered us amnesty. He kept his word, but the rest of our officials didn't, and when I got to Panama I was arrested on a technicality and sent to the states a prisoner of war, while my buddies went their respective ways.

Everyone was satisfied except the poor, ignorant peons and Chomorro was sure of protection for at least a couple of more years at the expense of our taxpayers in return for what he would give the oil and fruit companies. But such was the case in every Central American war.

Old Lawrence Aber was in custody again, but not for long, because with the aid of my radical friends I managed to escape from Ellis Island and headed for Chicago. From there I went to Kansas City, where I was arrested on suspicion and sent to the hospital at Leavenworth, Kansas. Once again I escaped, but was captured at Milwaukee and placed in the Soldiers' home there. In this institution one of the mental wards was always getting drunk and "raising Cain." A bunch of us in the mental ward grabbed him one day and threw him out of a window. The poor fellow broke his neck and died and we threw the body in the river, where it was discovered some time later and an investigation was instituted. Nothing could be done about it, however, as all of us were mental cases and could not be punished for it.

Again I escaped, was captured in Cincinnati, sent to the hospital at Chillicothe, Ohio, and escaped again. I came to Atlanta and here I am in this dingy old rat-hole of a Fulton Tower.

THE SUMMING UP OF ABER—RADICAL.

The average soldier of fortune is a bolshevik and a harm to your civilization. Still, picture the grafting officials who are just as bad. As a radical I hurt everywhere I touched and although I fought the United States I also fought my own country. I believe that in 1917 it was possible to have broken both England and America as Russia was, and I believe that the first non-employment period in the states will start a revolution. Your army is filled with the riff-raff of Europe, together with the spies of soviet internationalism, and you have no chance.

As Kipling put it, "I have taken my fun where I found it, and now I must pay for my fun." I have had my fling and now I am sick and to a certain extent crazy. I have enough money for my kid and that is all I wish.

The Veterans' bureau has fought me at every point and I have fought back. Most of my actions from '24 to '26 were not those of a soldier of fortune but of a plain crook, for I was getting old and needed the money. Whenever I escaped from a hospital and got caught again in a looked deal they would only class me as a mental case. What I want is to be classed as a sane man, pay for my crookedness like a man and then be allowed to go my way, but not with the stigma of a half-baked diagnosis of insanity hanging over me.

All my life, in spite of the fact that I am an anarchist, I have chased an ideal, that of helping the under dog fight in his fight.

Vive l'anarchist!

He was struck at Peachtree and Baker streets by an automobile driven by Mrs. L. G. Baldwin, 21 East drive, Peachtree Hills, according to the police report. No case was made.

His motorcycle colliding Thursday with one driven by a negro at Ivy and Cain streets, L. W. Hucksby, 21, an Emory student, was carried to Grady hospital where his condition was pronounced dangerous. The accident occurred when Hucksby attempted to make a left turn into Cain street from Ivy, his machine colliding with that of James Eagle, negro, who was uninjured.

150 LEGIONNAIRES AT WEEKLY LUNCH; SPEECHES BANNED

A luncheon-meeting without a speech on its program Friday drew 150 Legionnaires to the Henry Grady hotel. Both the oldtimers who know oratory comes with table d'hôte pie, and a score of new buddies introduced to the club, joined in hailing this innovation to luncheon club circles.

Optimism is rife at the local post, which concluded on Armistice day an intensive membership drive netting 1,000 new enrollments. One-time army and navy men long divorced from the service, are rallying to legion banners.

The Eight Musical Cavaliers from Keith's Georgia, who headlined the entertainment program, were provided by Rolaine Eggleston, manager of the theater and honor guest, and were enthusiastically acclaimed by the members.

Pete Brantley engineered the program, while Commander Kempton presided at the meeting.

Immediately following the meeting State Commander Asa Warren Commander appointed Harry Wallerstein to succeed Frank Haas as committeeman from the fifth congressional district.

COLORED BAPTISTS TO MEET IN AUGUSTA

Macon, Ga., November 18.—(Special.)—Today was a busy day at the colored Baptist convention in session here. The business committee recommended that 100 acres of land at Central City college be sold and the money be used for improvements on the premises. After a heated debate the measure was referred to the executive board of the convention.

Rev. Leander A. Pinckston, of Atlanta, was elected editor of The Georgia organ of the convention. The paper is published in Atlanta. Professor E. J. Matthews, D. D., son, was elected secretary. He succeeds Rev. A. S. Staley, who died a week ago at Americus.

Sarah J. Flucker, Argyle, was re-elected to preside over the women's department. The total receipts of this session was $7,709.47. Augusta was selected as the place of meeting in 1922. Rev. N. A. Lester, Cairo, preached the closing sermon.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE—

By Louis Tracy

Already famous as one of the world's most noted novelists, this latest work from the pen of Mr. Tracy is destined to add to his renown. Like all other Constitution serials it has never before been published in either book or serial form.

Remember that the first liberal installment of this gripping novel of love and mystery appears in Monday's Constitution.

Atlanta Pioneer Schoolboys Hold Annual Dinner Tonight

The Pioneer Schoolboys' Society of Atlanta, an organization unique in its characteristics, will hold its annual dinner and dance at 7 o'clock tonight in the ballroom of the Henry Grady hotel.

The Pioneer Women's society of the city will be present as a body, guest of the schoolboys' society, while many prominent visitors from other cities will be present to renew their membership in the society and to reunite once again with old friends.

Colonel William E. Kay, of Jacksonville, chief counsel for the Atlantic Coast Line railroad and one of the leading attorneys of Florida, will arrive in Atlanta this morning to attend the banquet and dance. Sam W. Small, editorial writer and Washington correspondent for The Constitution, is also making a special trip home for the event.

Brown Perennial Member.

Robert H. Brown, 70 years of age, is one member at least who will not "return" to Atlanta for the event. For Mr. Brown has never left. Born here 70 years ago Friday, Mr. Brown has been an Atlantan always. Through the entire 70 years—excepting the early years of childhood—he has been an active citizen, working always for advancement of the city in social and business ways.

The Pioneer Schoolboys' society is composed only of men who attended private schools in Atlanta before the establishment of the public school system. Inasmuch as the first public school was opened here in 1872, the society is strictly limited in the number of its membership. The youngest member today is 63, while the oldest living member is 87 years old.

Tonight, after the banquet and a few short speeches, an old-fashioned dance will be staged, with an old-time darky dance orchestra and a pre-war (between the states) negro to call the figures of the square dances. Only dances of the vintage of the seventies and eighties will be allowed, and the modern ballroom will fade into the misty memories of the past as the quadrille lanterns, are again stepped to stately tread. The ball will, of course, open with a grand march and every advance indication points to one of the most brilliant events of the local social season, and an affair outdoing anything arranged by the pioneer schoolboys in the past.

Formed 20 Years Ago.

The unique organization was formed 20 years ago at the home of James L. Logan, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the dinner-dance tonight. The late William T. Healey was its first president, followed in order by Woods White, Henry R. Durand, W. F. Crisselle, John M. Graham and Mr. Logan. Mr. Graham is again president this year, with John C. Whittier as vice president; Henry C. Reerman, secretary, and William F. Williams, treasurer.

Tonight, as the old schoolboys sit side by side with the pioneer women in the Henry Grady hotel, reminiscence will rule the conversation. Tales of heroic combats with marbles, of

350 Member Banks Are Threatening To Leave Dallas Reserve System

Objection Is Said To Have Been Made To Many Of Policies In That District.

Fort Worth, Texas, November 18. (AP)—The Fort Worth Star-Telegram said today that approximately 350 member banks are threatening to withdraw from the Dallas Federal Reserve bank because of dissatisfaction with the bank's policies on credits and other matters.

Lynn P. Talley, governor of the bank, refused to comment on the situation at Dallas, but it was pointed out at the reserve bank that there are 820 members of the federal reserve system in the district, of which 719 were said to be national banks and unable to withdraw so long as they remain national banks.

For several months some of the leading bankers of the state have been making a quiet canvass to determine the attitude of members toward the Dallas bank. Much dissatisfaction has been found, and some banks are not maintaining the federal reserve system to any extent. The Star-Telegram said, while many are prepared to withdraw their membership.

Failure of the reserve bank to extend credits was given as one cause for resentment together with methods pursued in denying credits. Some of the bankers declare the federal reserve system under present policies does not enlist the support or future affiliation of non-members and therefore is not successfully fulfilling its mission of mobilizing financial resources.

Directors of the Dallas reserve bank at a meeting this month will fix a date for an investigation of complaints of its members, said J. P. Williams, president of the First National Bank of Mineral Wells, Texas, and a leader in the fight to remove Talley. Williams said the report that some 350 members are threatening to withdraw was news to him, but that an investigation he made showed approximately 300 have indicated dissatisfaction with the present policy.

At a meeting in Lubbock on October 12 of 37 South Plains bank officials huge cotton bolls suffered by Texas farmers were laid at the door of the reserve bank and resolutions were passed asking that Talley be removed as governor.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO MAKE COMMENT

Dallas, Texas, November 18. (AP)—Lynn P. Talley, governor of Dallas Federal Reserve district, refused to comment on the reports of threatened withdrawal of banks in the district today. It was pointed out at the door of the reserve bank and resolutions were passed asking that Talley be removed as governor.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist—(adv.)

CONTROL OF WEST'S RIVERS STRESSED

Washington, November 18. (AP)—The importance of controlling the waters of the Mississippi river's tributaries as a part of a national flood plan was stressed today by witnesses before the house flood control committee.

Representative Oldfield, Democrat, Arkansas, declared the tributaries control was of as much value as that of the Mississippi. A system of reservoirs in the arid sections of several southwestern states to impound the Arkansas and Red rivers at their head waters for irrigation uses was proposed by Ernest E. Blake, of Oklahoma City, chairman of the interstate flood control commission for the two streams.

Two streams were navigable it developed upon the government to control their flood waters, both Oldfield and Blake asserted. A statement that the Mississippi river commission "lacked vision and had failed" in its investigation of the flood problem, was made by Blake. Several members of the committee, however, including Chairman Reid, of Illinois, and Representative Whittington, of Missouri, defended the commission on the ground that it acted only under the powers granted by congress.

Reservoirs in western states would add hundreds of thousands in population and millions of dollars in property values to those sections Blake claimed. He said the reservoirs should be built on the federal and state lands with the government bearing one-half to two-thirds of the cost and the remainder of the funds to be furnished by the states and counties directly benefited by the irrigation improvements.

He also suggested that the national flood plan be devised by a federal commission appointed by the president to cooperate with commissions from each of the states affected by the flood.

Chairman Reid announced that the committee would hold a hearing Monday at which Senator Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, would present his billion dollar flood control plan. On the following day, the committee will hear testimony from Martin, of Kansas; Murphy, of Mississippi; and Simpson, of Louisiana, said to appear.

HALF BILLION AID FOR FLOOD ASKED

Cleveland, November 18. (AP)—A flood relief program based on the expenditure of at least $500,000,000 was endorsed by Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, in a statement today upon his arrival here to address the convention of the National Grange. The senator will speak tonight.

"The United States is big enough and strong enough, if it quits giving its assets away to foreign countries, to do what it wants," Senator Borah said in reference to the flood relief project, one of the big questions upon which the grange is expected to take a stand.

Senator Borah said he expected some flood relief legislation from the impending session of congress but that he did not know what it would be. Meanwhile the grange members today devoted themselves to ritualistic work at which a record breaking crowd of 10,000 farmers from all parts of the country were being invited into the sixth and seventh degrees. The seventh degree is the highest in the grange.

82 FIDDLERS OPEN ANNUAL CONTEST

The most numerous assemblage of fiddlers, banjo players and entertainers ever gathered in the 14 years' history of the Georgia Old Time Fiddlers' association filled to overflowing the stage of the Atlanta auditorium last night, and Professor Aleck Smart, master of ceremonies, was embarrassed by an excess of talent.

He could give only half the visiting fiddlers a chance to display their wares in the three hours allotted to the program, especially as the audience insisted on repeated numbers from Fiddlin' John Carson and Gid Tanner, the favorite entertainers of the fiddler fans.

Mr. Smart, however, rang his cow bell toward the close of the program and announced that every one of the entrants who felt himself qualified to try for the championship of the south would be permitted to play tonight, with nothing but "straight fiddling" to be considered by the judges, and all such additions and accompaniments as "string beating" barred by the regulations of the association.

The opening night of the association's official convention drew about 3,000 persons to the auditorium, and they cheered their favorites until the rafters rang. Carson and Tanner, famous for their phonograph records, were the favorites with the crowd, though many of the county champions from various sections of Georgia had their loyal supporters.

A special afternoon session will be held today, for the benefit of the "old folks and children." Professor Smart announced, to begin at 2 o'clock. The official contest for the south championship will be held tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock, with entrants from Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida and the Carolinas. An old-fashioned county square dance, with music by the Laidlaw Bull Fiddle band, will be given after the championship contest is concluded.

SIDONS AND GORDON BREAK

The Teapot jury fixing scandal, now in the hands of a grand jury which is considering indictments, was stirred to new life today when a break between Justice Frederick L. Sidons, who presided in the Sinclair-Fall trial, and District Attorney Gordon was revealed.

The clash was marked by an exchange of peppery letters between the two in which Gordon refused to act as a member of a committee to determine whether those responsible for the Teapot jury irregularities are guilty of contempt of court.

Declining the appointment on the ground that it would be "inappropriate" for him to act and because he was "quite out of the country," Sidons refused to act as a member of a committee to determine whether those responsible for the Teapot jury irregularities are guilty of contempt of court.

Justice Sidons' refusal was based on four affidavits before him by Gordon, charging among other things that Harry E. Sinclair had employed the Burns agency to make improper contacts with the Teapot jurors and the justice's failure to immediately file affidavits for contempt of court in the case of the Sinclair-Fall trial.

Attorney Daniel Wright, counsel for Henry Mason Day, created a flurry when he appeared before Justice Sidons to withdraw his petition for a reduction of the $25,000 bond required of Day as a co-conspirator with Sinclair and Sidons in the Chicago, in the alleged jury tampering attempt. The proposal was opposed by the government yesterday on the ground that Day, who is vice president of the Sinclair Exploration company, is an American resident.

"What insane, senseless and infantile nonsense," declared Wright to Justice Sidons today, referring to the government's fear that Day might leave the country. "A fair parallel to the children of puerile histories concerning Mr. Day which has of late invaded the sensible affairs of the courthouse. However, the motion is here, Mr. Day has peremptorily requested and directed me to withdraw the motion and adhere to the bond already given. In the face of his command there is no course left to me save to withdraw the motion and so I do."

CADETS AT V. M. I. LOSE IN STRIKE ON HAZING BAN

Lexington, Va., November 18. (United News).—Cadets and school authorities of Virginia Military institute have shaken hands and made up. All disagreements resulting from the recent short-lived cadet strike have been wiped out and a new start is under way.

The walk-out was a student protest against Superintendent W. H. Cooke's effort to suppress hazing. Today the cadets emerged from four weeks of confinement to grounds.

Superintendent Cooke's position appears to have remained the same, for he issued an order yesterday forbidding any striking of new cadets by old cadets, with immediate dismissal as the one penalty.

Rabun Gap Fiddler Writes His Convention Impressions

BUD GRIBBENS EXPECTS "SOME FIDDLING" TONIGHT

BY BUD GRIBBENS. Special Representative of The Constitution and Georgia Old Time Fiddlers' association.

Your young man who come down to the auditorium Friday to take some pitchers of me and a lot of the other fiddlers said as how he would like for me to sit down after the first night of the convention and kinder write it up for the paper. I reckon I am sum letter with a fiddle how than I am with a pen and pencil but if you can read this you are welcome to my ideas, for whatever they are with.

I have been among and fiddled at a lot of conventions in my time, mostly up around Rabun county, where I live at, and round about in the mountains, but I never knowed how many fiddlers there was in Georgia till they got in line on the big platform Friday night.

Then to, I had an idea that I was quite some hand at fiddling and had told all the boys back in the zap that I was coming back home with the gold meddle for champion and the cash meddle, and I can't say I was wrong about that sense I heard some of the boys fiddle tonight. There are some more than 50 fiddlers in that crowd and they are all good, with some a lot better than others. PITTSBURGH VICE WOMAN IS JAILED

Wetumpka, Ala., November 18. (AP)—J. J. Johnson, farmer, 71, is dead and his daughter, Mrs. Odie Bremnon, is in jail here charged with the killing. Johnson was killed about noon today when his daughter fired two shots from a .32 calibre pistol into his body during a family quarrel. She immediately shot the sheriff called and surrendered.

Mrs. Bremnon is separated from her husband, it is stated, and was living with her parents in the western part of Alabama. She claims that her father reprimanded her and attacked her with a fire poker when she fired the two shots which proved fatal instantly. She is the mother of three children, the oldest of whom is seven years old, and the youngest about seven months old.

The only explanation to the tragedy of these states that Mr. Johnson reprimanded his daughter and attempted to slap her or did slap her before the shots were fired. The date for preliminary trial has not yet been set.

Quitman, Ga., November 18. (Special).—The Brooks county road crew is grading the Quitman-Thomasville road, which is to be the next paving project undertaken and will be completed as soon as possible. This is a state highway and Thomas county has already completed the road to the Thomas-Brooks line.

State highway engineers have been at work here recently completing surveys of the road. The paving will connect a link in the important Apalachicola Seaside highway. With the exception of this 10 miles the road is paved completely from Albany to Miami.

Plans To Combine Meets. Fewer cold winters in Indiana next year is assured by Jesse J. Mossler, secretary of the Indiana Golf association, which plans to combine the men's state tournament with an invitational meet for women at the French Lick course.

TIGER FLOWERS' BODY ARRIVES; FUNERAL MONDAY

The body of Tiger Flowers, negro, former middleweight champion of the world, who died suddenly in New York following a night of operation, arrived in Atlanta late Friday afternoon and was taken to the funeral parlors of the Hanley company.

The body will be removed to the residence, 1040 Simpson road, and will be in state there Sunday from 10 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Funeral services will be held at 12 o'clock Monday from the Butler street C. M. E. church, with burial in the South View cemetery.

The sudden death of Flowers, who was respected for his modesty, undoubtedly robbed him of a chance to regain his middleweight title, which he lost to Mickey Walker more than a year ago in a Chicago ring.

Hit By Trolley

Wetumpka, Ala., November 18.

J. J. Johnson, farmer, 71, is dead and his daughter, Mrs. Odie Bremnon, is in jail here charged with the killing. Johnson was killed about noon today when his daughter fired two shots from a .32 calibre pistol into his body during a family quarrel. She immediately shot the sheriff called and surrendered.

Mrs. Bremnon is separated from her husband, it is stated, and was living with her parents in the western part of Alabama. She claims that her father reprimanded her and attacked her with a fire poker when she fired the two shots which proved fatal instantly. She is the mother of three children, the oldest of whom is seven years old, and the youngest about seven months old.

The only explanation to the tragedy of these states that Mr. Johnson reprimanded his daughter and attempted to slap her or did slap her before the shots were fired. The date for preliminary trial has not yet been set.

Atlanta's Airport By Ben Cooper

The science class of Mrs. Charnian Howell, at O'Keefe Junior High school, dared her to take an airplane trip at Candler field. Mrs. Howell amply accepted the dare and today will take her first airplane trip, it was learned Friday.

Mrs. Howell's class learned that she is not overly enthusiastic about flying, having never been in an airplane before, and the students dared her to take a trip in the air. The dare was taken, so this afternoon she will be initiated into the mysteries of flying by Doug Davis, at Candler field. The flight is to take place at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and the class will be on hand to make sure that Mrs. Howell does not develop cold feet as she back down, it was said at the school.

CHINESE RELIEF FINDS 96 MILLION PEOPLE STARVING

BY CHARLES DAILEY. Peking, November 18.—The international famine relief commission reports that 9,000,000 people are starving in 56 prefectures of China, being half in Shantung province, and 1,000,000 more in ten prefectures of Chihli province. There are no reports from Honan province, where communications have been cut off by the warfare, but all the seed grain was seized by the militarists in the spring, and the suffering was great in the summer.

Julius E. Eiden, 20, had been doing all that when he found himself in traffic court today charged with parking the car four days before his home. He explained he couldn't afford a garage.

"If you'll promise to get rid of that car and not drive one until you can afford it, I'll suspend sentence," the magistrate told him. "I'll admit you've got a lot of nerve."

Eiden told the court the car cost $250 and was a "good machine."

JUDGE TELLS BOY TO SELL LIZZIE; SUSPENDS FINE

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.) New York, November 18.—Twenty dollars a week is not enough to support one's self, mother and two sisters—and a car—believes Magistrate John V. Flood.

True hills charging blackmail and impersonation of an officer were returned Friday by the Fulton grand jury against W. A. Franklin. The defendant is charged with representing himself as house detective for a local hotel to a young woman who was stopping at the hotel, and with demanding blackmail from the young woman.

Starts Hens Laying

A letter from Miss Dama Wright, Vernonia, Ore., has a real idea for chicken raisers who are not getting plenty of eggs. She says: "Late in October, our 15 hens were not laying at all. I started giving them Don Sung, and for 10 days they still didn't lay. But on the eleventh day they laid 13 eggs, and it is wonderful what Don Sung has done for our egg laying."

Don Sung, the Chinese egg laying tablet which Miss Wright used, are opening thousands of chicken raisers all over America. The tablets can be obtained from the Burdette Drug Store, 402 Bial Street, Chicago, Ill. Don Sung, Ind. Poultry raisers whose hens are not laying well should send 50 cents for a trial package for $1 for the extra large size, holding three times as much. Don Sung is positively guaranteed to do the work or money promptly refunded, on 10 cents nothing to try. Right now is the time to give Don Sung to your hens so you will have a good supply of fresh eggs all winter.

Funeral services for Raymond Thompson, 68, veteran employee of the J. M. High company, who died Thursday at his home in Clarkston, Ga., were held Friday afternoon from the Kirkwood Methodist church. The Rev. J. L. Allgood officiated and interment was in Social Circle, Ga.

He had been connected with the J. M. High company for about 15 years and was said to be one of the firm's most popular salesmen. He was a member of the Kirkwood Methodist church.

He is survived by his wife; a son, Fred B. Thompson; a daughter, Mrs. J. Mason Williams, of Monroe, Ga., and six grandchildren.

Funeral services for George W. Wilson, formerly of Atlanta, who died Thursday night at the home of Rev. R. L. Baker, in Chattanooga, Tenn., will be held Sunday afternoon from the chapel of Harry G. Poole. The body will arrive in Atlanta this afternoon.

Georgia Bulldogs Face Merger Bears in Athens Today

Teams Primed For Annual Grid Classic

Seven Bulldogs Play Last Game on Sanford Field Today.

BY BOB SHERROD.
Athens, Ga., November 18.—Friday found seven Bulldog football stars ready to wind up their brilliant careers tomorrow on Sanford field, Georgia's historic old battle ground. The Georgians who will end their football days in Athens on Saturday against the Mercer Bears are: Captain "Chick" Shiver and Tom Nash, ends; "Bear" Morris, tackle; Gene Smith, guard; Johnny Broadnax, quarterback; and Bob McTigue and Roy Estes, halfbacks. Several of these players will undoubtedly be mentioned and chosen as all-southern material at the end of the current season. All have served their alma mater well in their three years on the gridiron.

Preparation for the Mercer game was ended Friday afternoon with a light workout consisting mostly of running signals, running down under punts, and kick-off formation practice.

One Star Missing.
The squad has been in no better shape at any period during the 1927 season. Only one varsity man is out with injuries, he being Bobby Hooks, who struts on the sidelines in pain of hips in the south at his halfback position. Hooks, one of the team's three expert flippers of the pigskin, has been suffering from a broken hand, sustained in the Florida game, and will not be able to see service against Mercer. It is also doubtful if this time that he will play against Alabama in Birmingham on Thanksgiving. However, the team's other four forward pass flingers, Estes and Johnson, as well as Harvey Hill, substitute halfback, will be in there against the Bears at any rate.

The question as to whether "Phoney" Smith, Mercer ace, will be able to score on the Bulldogs seems to have been worrying sports scribes over the entire south to a considerable extent. The Georgia goal line, which has been crossed only once this season, and then by Yale, is being watched from all sides. The Georgia linemen, composing a veritable wall, make the determined assertion that Mr. Smith's chances are practically nil when it comes to scoring through them. Of course the Red and Black ends, Shivers and Nash, insist that "Phoney" is like all other mortals and not likely to score at that point of vantage. Then there is the secondary defense composed alternately of Broadnax, Johnson, McTigue, Estes, McCrary, Rothstein and Dudley, to disprove the probability of a forward pass marker. Anyway, it will be an interesting feature of the game.

Pointing to Alabama.
Most of the current week's work-out has been in preparation for meeting the Crimson Tide on turkey day. Mercer has been rather overshadowed by the looming of a big red line in the immediate background.

However, the varsity has some, if not much, practice against Mercer formations and will be prepared to cope with the best that the Mason lions have to offer.

The Mercer team is scheduled to arrive in Athens Saturday morning, not on Friday, as last year.

A large group of Mercer students had already arrived in Athens Friday night and many more were expected on the special train from Macon Saturday morning.

TOPSY-TURVEY 'BIG 10' SEASON ENDS TODAY

Chicago, November 18.—(United News.)—A season of tragic ups and downs in "Big Ten" football will end Saturday when spectators at five gridiron shivers through the last conference games of 1927.

Two of the conference teams, Illinois and Minnesota, are undefeated although both suffered ignominious ties early in the season while lesser schools of the conference were advancing "championship contenders," which proved inadequate to the task set for them a few weeks later.

Illinois will meet Ohio State Saturday and to keep their record clean the Illini will have to fight a last victory which the Buckeyes have acquired since a group of alumni threatened to "fire" their coach, Jack Wilce. The game will be played at Columbus to add to the difficulties of the Illini.

Gophers Come Back.
The team which tied Illinois early this season was the Iowa State eleven, admittedly an inferior aggregation. Similarly, Minnesota was tied by Indiana. The Gophers came back, however, and Saturday they must meet Michigan, which they defeated at Michigan at Ann Arbor.

"The little brown jug" trophy of Michigan-Minnesota games, has been in possession of the Wolverines more often than not and the Gophers hope to be able to take it back to Minneapolis with them.

Purdue will meet Indiana in the annual Hoosier brawl and the Badger makers must beat a confident and capable team of sophomores which everyone else in the conference has defeated. Coach Pat Haze, of Indiana, will have the same team here next year while, with exception of Illinois, most of the stars of other conference schools will graduate.

Wisconsin plays Chicago at Stagg field in another "grid" contest, which always brings out the best both schools have to offer.

The Northwestern team, loudly proclaimed after an early season victory over Ohio, is still unable to muster its entire first squad because of injuries, but will make a final gesture for glory in a game with Iowa. The latter won its first conference game of the season, defeating Wisconsin last week.

SANDLOTTERS OFF FOR AUGUSTA

YALE-HARVARD CLASH DRAWS GRIDSPOTLIGHT

New York, November 18.—(AP)—The traditional battle between Yale and Harvard tomorrow at Cambridge with the Elis confident of a victory that will keep them at the top of the eastern championship heap, overshadow the rest of the gridiron activities along the Atlantic seaboard.

The team that conquered Dartmouth and the Army with Bruce Caldwell, and Princeton without him, is a top-heavy favorite to defeat the erratic Crimson eleven. Nevertheless, in a game where so much ancient rivalry is involved, Harvard is considered at least a fighting chance of scoring an upset.

Both the Blue and Crimson have been handicapped by injuries to stars, but Yale appears to have the stronger reserves, in the line as well as the backfield.

Would Clinch Honors.
Victory for Yale will clinch a major claim to mythical eastern team honors, although Pittsburgh's great eleven and the team that held it to a scoreless tie, Washington and Jefferson, also are in the picture. The Panthers and Presidents are idle tomorrow, preparing for Thanksgiving day finales when they meet Penn State and West Virginia, respectively. Except for another traditional battle of east, neither the Army nor Navy, working toward their climax classic November 26, look for more than good exercise, with the Cadets meeting Ursinus and the Midshipmen opposing Loyola.

After losing six in a row, Brown will make an effort to come back again against New Hampshire while Georgetown hopes to clinch its claims to the Catholic college championship of the east with a decisive victory over Fordham here.

21 Sandlot Gridders Leave for Augusta to Battle Strong Team There Today—Squad Travels by Auto.

Riding high on a wave of enthusiasm stimulated by the flaming trail which the red car of Fire Chief William B. Cody blazed, two dozen Atlanta youngsters left Atlanta Friday as official representatives of the Atlanta parks department to battle a similar team in Augusta today for These lads, incidentally, are the first official football team representing Atlanta and have pledged themselves to bring back the bacon. They will be accompanied by L. L. Wallis, superintendent of parks and playgrounds, and Sam Salzman, daddy of Sandlot leagues in Atlanta. While the team will be composed of stars from many of the playgrounds, many of them will come from sandlot circles which Mr. Salzman has fostered for the past four years.

Ray Williams, son of the Rev. Marvin Williams, is coach of the team and Marvin Boyd is captain. The party left the Atlanta city hall at 9 o'clock Friday morning. The members of the Atlanta team and the organization they represent are: C. C. Ford, Madox; Harry Hopkins, Emory; Lorin Akins, Madox; Ansley Woodall, Madox; Alvin Leary, North Side Bulldogs; North Side Bulldogs; Sam Pagan, North Side Bulldogs; Tom Spradling, Briarcliff Tigers; Hadley Snelton, Briarcliff Tigers; Stark Thomas, North Side Bulldogs; Neil Baldwin, Briarcliff Tigers; Marvin Williams, Briarcliff Tigers; Albert Leinweber, North Side Bulldogs; James Dickerson, Adair; William Statton, Briarcliff Tigers; Jerry Porskinson, North Side Bulldogs; Jack Elford, Briarcliff Tigers; Howard Benning, Madox; Buck Manley, Emory; Opal Moon, Madox; Sidney Searborough, North Side Bulldogs; and Howell Nolan, North Side Bulldogs.

Decatur Hi Wins Over LaGrange.
LaGrange, Ga., November 18.—(Special.)—Decatur High fought back an ever threatening LaGrange high team here this afternoon and emerged with a 19-to-0 victory. LaGrange was in leading position three times but each time the Decatur defense would stiffen or a fumble would check the drive. Shortly before the half ended, Decatur compiled a pass for 60 yards that placed the ball on Decatur's five-yard line. Johnston and McGehee starred for Decatur, while Whittam Mills and Boggs played well for LaGrange.

Chicago Fans Laud Wilson.
In protest to the statement by sport scribes that the Cubs were with a single star player last year, Chicago fans want to know who "Hack" Wilson, who clouted 30 home runs during the past season, should not be classed as one of the outstanding players in the National league.

TIGERS LOOM AS CHAMPIONS OF CONFERENCE

Kansas City, November 12.—(AP)—Snow flurries over the middle west today heralded prospects of white gridiron for tomorrow's three crucial games in the Missouri valley conference. Though not the last of the season, the Saturday contests may end the race for the championship as Missouri would clinch four if they defeat Kansas at Lawrence.

The Kansas Jayhawkers emerged from secret practice only long enough to retire to a resort outside Lawrence where they will await game time. Both teams will be affected by injuries. Nebraska's Cornhuskers arrived in Manhattan in time for a light workout before the Kansas Aggies came before a large homecoming crowd. Both teams are expected to play. The Aggies are conceded an outside chance to force Nebraska out of the conference running.

The Oklahoma Sooners engage the Oklahoma Aggies at Norman in a tilt that will have much bearing on the final standing of both teams. Oklahoma, considered the third team with a possible chance at the title, has lost one game in four starts. The Aggies, last year's champions, have lost their only conference game at Fair, the teams tied last year.

The Iowa State eleven, which tied Illinois, potential big ten champions, is expected to find difficulty from Grinnell. Notre Dame is favored to take the measure of the Drake Bulldogs.

Georgia Has Great Ends.

One team boasts of two of the greatest end men developed in the south. The University of Georgia eleven has on its roster Nash and Shivers. They are candidates for the Dixie team that will play in the annual coast charity game.

Seaboard Secures 'Bama-Georgia' Tickets

Rufus Camp, district passenger agent for the Seaboard Air Line, announces he has been able to secure from football officials a large number of choice reserved seats for the Georgia-Alabama game to be played in Birmingham Thanksgiving day. These tickets will be on sale at the city ticket office of the Seaboard, 34 Walton street, Monday morning, to passengers using the Seaboard between Birmingham and Atlanta.

The Seaboard is operating two special trains for this game. One special will run from Athens to accommodate the Georgia student body and band; the other special is to accommodate those from Atlanta who will make the trip to Birmingham. This special will leave Atlanta at midnight, November 22, and arrive at Birmingham at 7 o'clock the next morning. It will operate on the same schedule returning from Birmingham November 24. Tickets will also be good on regular trains leaving at 6:30 a. m. and 4:25 p. m. Wednesday, November 23, and on regular trains leaving at 6:25 for the round trip have been authorized for this game.

Smithy Squad Plays Today in Charlotte

Hard Game Is Slated for Atlanta Squad Against Charlotte High Team.

Numerous, husky Tech High Smithies boarded a train at 9 o'clock Friday night headed for Charlotte, N. C., and a game there this afternoon with the "Fighting Gents," of Charlotte High school.

The Charlotte gang has a slight edge in games won and points scored, having a clear record this season. The only blot made while the Smithies' 1927 record was being compiled is a 6-to-0 defeat at the hands of Central High in Chattanooga on Saturday last. This is the only defeat among a string of victories including one over Erie, Pa. High in Erie at the early part of the season.

Charlotte has been pointing all week for this game with Tech High, working against Smithy formations in scrimmages. Coach Caldwell, so the reports from Charlotte have it, has whipped his squad into the best of shape and the Smithies are in for a good fight on Weary field.

The game is expected to draw a large crowd and the seating capacity of the field has been enlarged considerably. Tech High was sent through a light workout Friday afternoon before leaving. With the exception of Heavy Hammond, the squad seems to be in good shape for the game. Hammond was in bed three days this week, and may not see service today.

Following is the probable lineup for Charlotte. W. O. Cheney, principal of Tech High, announced that the Smithies' game with Valdosta High on Thanksgiving in Valdosta, had been cancelled. It seems that Valdosta is in a triple tie for the championship of its section and must play two more games. Accordingly, the officials of the school asked that they be released from the game with Tech High and the Smithy officials agreed.

Following is the probable lineup and weights for today's game in Charlotte:

TECH	CHARLOTTE
Wade (172).....	(173) Dunaway
McDox (165).....	(173) Shallow
Mullins (159).....	(161) Hutchison
Grubbs (157).....	(163) Martin
Hammond (159).....	(159) Johnson
Moat (142).....	(158) Lane
McDox (142).....	(154) Pendergast
Beckley (143).....	(149) Beckley
Officials: Gus Tebbel (Wisconsin), referee; Dan (V. M. L.), head linesman.

Gates Is Beaten By Jack Renault

Tampa, Fla., November 18.—(AP)—Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, won a judges' decision over Leo Gates, Mohawk Indian, in a ten-round bout here tonight. Renault carried the fight from the starting bell and barely missed scoring a knockout over Gates in the ninth round. Gates was knocked out by Tiger Flowers, Atlanta negro, in New York last Saturday in the last hour. Flowers engaged in before his death.

The Indian entered the ring bearing evidence about his face of the severe beating he took at the hands of Flowers last week, and these old wounds were the principal target of the Canadian's blows. Gates was bleeding profusely about the face in the final round and his left eye was almost entirely closed.

Gunner Farley, Atlanta heavyweight, knocked out Tom Cowers, Texas ranger, in the third round of the scheduled 10-round semi-final.

Young Jack Dempsey, Atlanta, scored a technical knockout over Joe Keweenaw, Pittsburgh, in the third round of a scheduled four-round boxing bout. They are heavyweights.

Loughran Signs For Title Bout

New York, November 18.—(United News.)—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, recognized by the New York boxing commission as the world's light-heavyweight champion, today agreed to fight Tex Rickard today to defend his title against Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., in the garden on January 6.

Richard today agreed to work to match Loughran and Jimmy Slattery, who is recognized as the champion by the National Boxing association. When the attempt failed Slattery was ordered by Thomas Donohue, president of the association, to accept a match with Lomski within 30 days or vacate the title.

For four years out of the last five Michigan has held or shared the conference championship, and they can throw the title into a three-way tie again, by downing Minnesota—if Illinois finally skids into defeat at the same time at Columbus.

Such a catastrophe is far from the minds of Coach Zuppke and his 35 warriors. Seldom have the Illini walked off the field at Columbus without the football and glory, and seldom has Zuppke had such a well-rounded band of linemen and ball carriers.

Snow tonight covered all the battlefields of the conference, and protective coverings promised good turf.

Many names destined to go down in "Big Ten" history will pass from the over-arched, temporary, including Captain Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan's all-American end; Captain Herb Joesting, Minnesota's line-wrecking fullback; Harold Alquist, of Minnesota, leading scorer of the "Big Ten"; and one of the year's outstanding halfbacks; Captain Bob Reitsch, of Illinois, and many others.

The other three conference games close the schedule. Purdue will meet Indiana, Wisconsin will tackle Chicago and Northwestern and Iowa will struggle together.

Baby Petrels Play Chattanooga Today

The Baby Petrels of Oglethorpe will meet the frosh of Chattanooga university in their first morning in their annual grid clash.

The locals leave early this morning for the scene of battle and expressed their confidence in returning home with the bacon.

The Oglethorpe yearlings have had a very successful season thus far, losing only one college game and that to the powerful freshman eleven of the University of Florida.

The Chattanooga frosh have also turned in a goodly number of wins and the game should be a real battle from beginning to end.

"NO GAME," SAYS DARTMOUTH.

Hanover, N. H., November 18.—(AP) President Ernest Martin Hopkins, of Dartmouth college, today definitely set a record reports that Dartmouth and Georgetown would play a post-season football game for the benefit of New England flood sufferers. "The Dartmouth football season is over," he said. "The team has disbanded, and no further games will be played."

Denies Confirming Post-Season Tilt

Boston, November 18.—(AP)—Larry Bankart, former Dartmouth football player, told the Associated Press today that someone impersonating him evidently had given out the statement issued in his name to the effect that Dartmouth had agreed to meet Georgetown in a post-season football game in the Harvard stadium November 16 for the benefit of Vermont and New Hampshire flood sufferers. He denied emphatically that he had said anything about the proposition.

"I am not even a member of the athletic council and I have no part in the story," he said. "I never even knew until this morning that such a game had been proposed."

Jackets and Petrels Are Set for Annual Battle Today

Tech's Squad In Good Shape For Oglethorpe

Stumpy Thomason Is Ready for Play; Rusk Probably Out of Game.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Internal strife and turmoil takes place this afternoon when the Jackets of Tech and the Stormy Petrels of Oglethorpe meet on Grant field in their eighth renewal of grid battles.

Last year the Petrel walked off the field feeling rather cocky with a 7-to-6 victory over the Jackets posted in his hat, and would like to see him to accomplish the same this afternoon but it is very doubtful that such will be the case.

The Petrels have a good team this year, and of course, will be fighting their hardest against Tech. Crimped though this gang from out Peachtree road may be, outclassed, and everything else, the Jackets today will find fight at every turn.

And if these same Jackets try to keep an eye out for Thanksgiving and December 3 and dispose of Oglethorpe at the same time, things are most liable to happen.

"Bird in the Hand." So, as in all other games this year, it behooves the Jackets to pay strict attention to the bird in the hand for this bird won't be easy to hold.

Just who will start against the Stormy Birds is rather problematical. With the exception of Thursday and Friday, Coach Alex and a dozen or more varsity men have been hard at work within the inner confines of Koi Clay's beloved baseball field. This is the same bunch that Coach Alex started in the L. S. U. game during the third quarter last Saturday and is sometimes known as the varsity.

Then there's a gang that Bill Fincher has been driving the entire week and scrimmaged twice against Oglethorpe players. The same team started against L. S. U. and made most of the points scored on the Louisiana Tiger. It is most probable that this bunch will face the Petrel at the opening kick-off this afternoon, and that the team which has been swathed in secrecy all week will be allowed to charge against the Petrel for a short while.

This latter team will be greatly aided by the presence of Stumpy Thomason, who watched last Saturday's engagement from the bench. Stumpy had an injured shoulder, received in the Vanderbilt game, which has fully recovered and the doctors have turned him loose.

And he'll most likely go loose this afternoon if given half a chance. Peter Pund will probably draw the starting assignment at center. Rusk, reserve pivot man, has a badly injured leg which, it is thought, will keep him out of the game this afternoon. Bill Fincher has been working on Muse, a sophomore snapper, and he may start if Alex chooses to keep Pund on the bench.

Outside of Rusk's injury the entire squad is in good shape and ready for the battle with the Petrel which will be plenty hard and no fooling.

Probable Line-Up.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

The Lull.

The lull comes before the storm. In southern football, as in the caprices of nature, every storm is heralded by a comparative lull in the atmosphere. Today there is not one game that has any definite bearing on the southern conference title race, but indirectly the games of today have much to do with the ultimate result.

There is but one conference battle on the schedule on Saturday, that featuring Vanderbilt and Maryland, and Vandy has a decided edge on the dope in this case.

The other conference teams seem to be resting for the crucial Thanksgiving day games, when the conference hopes of more than one team will be put to the supreme test. On that day Georgia faces its greatest test of the year in the opinion of many, when she faces the Crimson Tide of Alabama at the municipal stadium at Birmingham. But that is next week's tale and calls for no telling here.

Today Tech faces Oglethorpe, and those who believe that Tech has a dead clinch on the game are mistaken. The Petrels are crippled and Tech should be able to win without any great amount of trouble, but against the Tornado the Petrels fly their highest and the dope can be discounted to a certain extent for this reason.

Giving any number of points on Oglethorpe is dangerous business with Coach Alexander in a position where he must save his first string squad as much as possible and leave the burden of the work to Bill Fincher's outfit. The Tornado may beat Oglethorpe as much as three touchdowns, but it is not probable, because there seems to be no spirit of vengeance at Georgia Tech and there does seem to be a very decided tendency to save everything possible for the final game of the season against the Bulldogs of Georgia.

The Georgia-Mercer game presents very much the same situation. Coach Woodruff and his aides must save much for the Alabama game. They are not taking this Thanksgiving game lightly, despite the fact that the Tide has been defeated twice. Everything they take out of the varsity today will be as much taken from the turkey day game Thursday, and a big score against Mercer is not altogether likely. At both Georgia and Tech the first team is likely to get just enough play to keep them in trim and no more.

Proof of the Pudding.

Every now and then there is a beautiful gesture made in the realm of sports, and this morning at Spiller's dell one of these gestures will be made. In Grady hospital lies a former member of a sandlot football team suffering from a grievous wound. Out at Spiller's dell two teams of sandlot football players will battle on the gridiron for a solid hour, and the fruits of their efforts will go to this wounded youth who lies on the brink of death with a bullet in his brain.

Loren Lester is fighting against the Grim Reaper, and two football teams, the O'Keefe Panthers and the Peachtree Road Terrors, will stage a game for the benefit of the stricken youth.

The sandlot football teams need the money for uniforms and other expenses connected with their league, but they give, and gladly, everything to this youth who has been less fortunate than they.

And yet some cynics will still maintain that the sandlot work is not bearing fruit.

Marist Cadets Bow to Newnan

Newnan, Ga., November 18.—In one of the fastest football games ever seen here, Newnan defeated Marist College, of Atlanta, by the score of 6 to 2, this afternoon. Both teams were about evenly matched and fought hard for every yard gained. Pitman, at right half, and Hyde, at left end, for Newnan, were the outstanding stars of the game.

Newnan's lone touchdown came in the third quarter when Pitman ran through the Marist team's line for 40 yards and a score.

Petrels Ready For Meeting With Jackets

Several New Men Expected To Start Against Tech in Annual Tilt.

BY FRED McEACHIN.

For the eighth time in as many years the Stormy Petrels of Oglethorpe university will march forth to Grant field this afternoon to meet the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech.

A review of the records reveals the fact that the powerful Tornado has been victorious in six of these eight years which constitute the gridiron relationship of the two local institutions. The 7-6 victory of the 1926 game marks the lone triumph of the Oglethorpe team over its more famous rival.

After a casual glance at the dope sheet the Petrels are destined to lose another. These direful predictions are made in favor of the Tornado because of the enviable record which it has established this year and also in view of the fact that the Stormy Petrels have not proved stormy enough to win many of their contests this season, having lost four of five games.

However, because they are supposed to lose the game today, by no means insinuates that the Petrels will not be out for a repetition of last year's victory. When the Birds take the field at 2 o'clock and start off down the field at the sound of the referee's whistle they will be in a fighting mood and will put up a game fight.

There are odds available in favor of a Tech slaughter from four to five touchdowns. But it is the general opinion that the resulting score will be much closer, for the Petrels will play a much better brand of football than is expected of them, which will consequently hold the scoring ability of the Tornado down, and Coach Alexander's policies are not prone to roll up big scores and turn in overwhelming wins. This fact was plainly stressed in the recent Tech-L. S. U. game in which the second and third Tech teams played a big part. Of course if he chooses to work the varsity during the entire contest the story might be a different one, but this is highly improbable.

In the lineup today will be seen new men, some who have not started any of the previous games this year. They are Clement at end, who has been out of the game on account of an injured arm; Vaughn, who has also been recuperating from an injury sustained at the beginning of the season, and Gordy, who has been playing the role of substitute tackle. He will probably replace Perkins.

New York Board Bans Joe Dundee

New York, November 18.—(AP)—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, world's welterweight champion, was suspended today by the New York State Athletic commission as a result of the recent Los Angeles fiasco in which his title fight with Ace Hudkins fell through at the last minute.

At the same time two of the New York commission's official physicians pronounced Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, unfit to fight as result of an injury to one of his fingers, thereby supporting the boxer's excuse for calling off a fight scheduled to night at Madison Square Garden with Tom Henney.

Boys' High Drops Game To Lanier

Purple Squad Is Defeated in Macon Friday by 19-to-0 Score.

BY L. A. TILT.

Macon, Ga., November 18.—(Special.)—Lanier High of Macon, overwhelmed a fighting Boys' High eleven this afternoon by the impressive score of 19 to 0.

Lanier displayed an offense that swept the lighter Atlanta squad off its feet and the Poets made many long gains through the Purple Line defense, the home team was almost invincible, holding when holding was necessary and stopping the Purple backs on many occasions for losses.

This game was an all-important G. I. A. tilt for the Boys' High squad, and having come out on the short end of the score the Atlantans are practically out of the running for state honors.

Shorty Doyal, who coaches the Boys' High team, was unable to make the trip with the players, and Dave Johnston, basketball coach, was in charge.

BOBBY IN TEARS, RECEIVES HOME

kind. They look about for a means of expressing their regard for the finest golfer and finest gentleman sportsman of the age and find expression in a great gift.

The words of Bob Jones as he received the gift expressed the sentiment of every man who added his bit to the gift. "If the intrinsic value of the gift told all the story," said Bob as he struggled with his emotions, "it would carry only an intrinsic value and would mean much less to me than the gift carries much more than the value of dollars. I will be more than happy if I can be worthy of this gift."

Just where Bob Jones will build his new home and just what the architect of that home will be, lies in the lap of the future but of one thing there is a certainty—no great tribute was ever paid to any man than was accorded Bob Jones Friday night when he stood under those glaring lights, his eyes misty with tears and received a gift of $50,000 from his friends.

Engine Black, before making the actual presentation, expressed the sentiments of every man of the hundreds in the room when he said: "This gift to Little Bob Jones is made by his friends as a substantial token of their regard for a man who has carried their banner to the very corners of the earth and returned with that banner unfurled in victory. And no man could better grace his home than Little Bob Jones."

As a committee to act with Bob in his selection of a site for the home and aid him in the construction of the following men were named: T. B. Payne, E. H. Thornehill, R. H. Martin and Y. E. Freeman.

This committee will act with Bob immediately and it is expected that a definite decision on the site and other plans will be available within a very short time.

In addition to Mr. Black, the members of the committee who were behind the move to honor Bob Jones with this great gift are Henry C. Herz, John K. O'Leary, E. H. Thornehill, Scott Hudson, Charles Black, Lowry Arnold and R. H. Martin. A book of parchment to be placed in the new home, will carry the names of all donors to the fund but even after this parchment has grown moldy with age the spirit of the gift will still be fresh in the mind of the world's greatest golfer.

RENEWAL OF BOSTON TEA PARTY HELD AT HARVARD

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.) Boston, Mass., November 18.—The big, bucko Yale football team came to Boston this afternoon, took a pipe-opening spin around the field in Harvard's intimate little football stadium and then held up in one of those fearfully respectable old public sepulchers peculiar to the hotel industry in Boston, where the room clerk demands the middle name, street number, political preference, previous illnesses and a coroner's certificate for each guest registered.

There is quite a crowd in town this evening but there is a peculiar hide-away quality about the Yale festivities preliminary to the Yale-Harvard game in Boston so the only outward manifestation of the traditional hip-hop consists of a sedate show of Blue and Crimson hen feathers jabbed in the hands of four dollar in the haberdashery windows in streets where nobody walks after sundown.

I detect a general disposition to expect very little of the Harvard team in the game with Yale and to hurl the reproaches for Harvard's faint promise not at the team nor the coach, Mr. Arnold Horween, but at the student body of the school and the Harvard union the other night, giving the non-combatant students a jolly good wiggling and his outburst has caused talk.

Mr. Hardwick, the great man of Harvard era of Harvard football, speaking as a member of the family, or a member emeritus, let fly with all the ranking thought upon this subject at the student rally in the Harvard union the other night, giving the non-combatant students a jolly good wiggling and his outburst has caused talk.

Just where the student body might be called, in round numbers, to have spared the football players themselves wherein they had earned the adverse ear of the student body of the school and the Harvard union the other night, giving the non-combatant students a jolly good wiggling and his outburst has caused talk.

It is related that the members of the Vermont team, taken by surprise, accepted the invitation and went away with a lingering taste of macaroni and a haunting sense of having been kidded. Then came the Purdue team and my informant in this matter says those boys from Indiana, though game enough, just didn't know what a fellow was supposed to do at a tea.

The Jolly Tea.

"Some of them," he says, "were scalded trying to balance a handkerchief on one knee cap, a plate of lady fingers on the other and a dolly between the two."

About this time the Dartmouth boys heard of the custom and realizing that they were to play Harvard two weeks later, decided to go into training for the social side of football at Harvard. However, with no previous experience at the football tea, they gave their party between halves of the game with Temple university, which was not only a social but a gastronomic faux pas because as soon as they resumed their running around the tea became aroused and both teams were compelled to devote their allotted time out to frank and embarrassing sea-sickness.

This convinced the Dartmouth boys that if one had to drink tea to be a gentleman they were no gents and so when they finished their game at Harvard they got right into their clothes, went down to the hotel and ordered T bones with onions rare, leaving the Harvard team drinking tea aloof and alone.

Bjorkman Sees Tough Battle On Flats Today

Coach Robertson Will Have Men in Top Form for Tilt.

BY HANK BJORKMAN.

Last fall after the first game of the season for Tech the scoreboard read Oglethorpe 7, Tech 6, and a feeling of surprise and consternation existed among the Tech supporters.

Tech was beaten on that day by a team which outthought it all the way and deserved to win. I make this remark for it is characteristic of an Oglethorpe team. Regardless of their past record this year, I know that Harry Robertson will have his men in a fighting mood tomorrow.

Some observers of this game who are wont to make rash predictions regard the Petrels as an easy foe, but the coaches at Tech think otherwise. The Petrels started their practice later than the usual date for other teams and naturally it has taken them longer to arrive and work as a unit. So don't be surprised to see a smooth working machine playing against the Tech engineers Saturday.

I have full confidence in Coach Harry and believe he is able to obtain the maximum results from his men. His deceptive running plays are confusing, and many times it is bewildering as to where the ball is. Speed plus deception is equally effective as a powerful attack. Captain Guthrie and Sims have both played outstanding games of last year and will play hard football to avenge this defeat. However, I have, as do the other coaches, the highest respect for Coach Robertson. In the face of success any coach is a wonder.

It is the coach who takes the most jolts that finally rides on the crest of the wave. I predict a hard game of football today.

Hagen Wins 5th Straight.

Walter Hagen's victory over P. G. A. tournament held at Dallas, Texas, recently, was his fifth straight triumph in the annual professional meet.

ATLANTA CLUB PLAYS 22ND SOCCER TEAM

The feature game of the soccer season will take place Sunday at Fort McPherson when the Atlanta Soccer club meets the now somewhat experienced soldiers of the twenty-second infantry, in the first full game that has been played between the two teams.

The soldiers devote some little time to the practice of this game during the hours that they are at liberty for athletic recreation and consequently they are expected to hold the Atlanta champions to probably the lowest score that has gone against them. It is even thought that the soldiers will be returned the victors, but this is rather unexpected. The teams have developed to such an extent that a game will be arranged in Atlanta in order that more people will be able to witness such a spectacle.

I Have Said in My Heart

BY IDA H. MCGLONE GIBSON

INTRODUCTIONS

Manners always improve with the cultivation of the mind, and we can turn the rule around, for the acquirement of good manners can only be attained by education and observation, followed by habitual practice. It would be a good thing if we had another Addison or Steele to turn our attention to the manners of our time, as these distinguished writers did in the Spectator.

The great mistake that most people make is in acquiring too much manner. Simplicity of both thought and action is the basis of good breeding.

One must use her common sense as well as her kindness of heart and take into consideration that pretension is always a mark of vulgarity. Introductions are made indiscriminately in America and there is much to be learned in almost any set about the proper way to present one person to another.

In the first place, you should never introduce one person to another unless you know that it is agreeable to both of them.

"But," you exclaim, "perhaps they are both at my home for an evening party."

Then these ladies should know the English law that "roof is introduction," and remember that a casual conversation does not hurt anyone, neither does it entail a further acquaintance which might be awkward.

In making an introduction the gentleman is always presented to the lady. The younger woman to the older woman.

In her own house a hostess should always extend her hand to a person introduced to her.

At a dinner party the hostess need only introduce the gentleman to the lady that he is to take in to dinner.

Even after introduction a man must wait for the woman to bow first when next they meet.

When introducing a man always give him his title, even if you are his wife.

Introductions on the street are not in good taste, as one should not stop long enough on a promenade to present one person to another. If you are with someone and a friend stops her on the street, it is good taste for you to walk on slowly.

Memo: Strive to live up to your favorable introduction.

Mr. Van de View Comes to the Rescue on a Bus

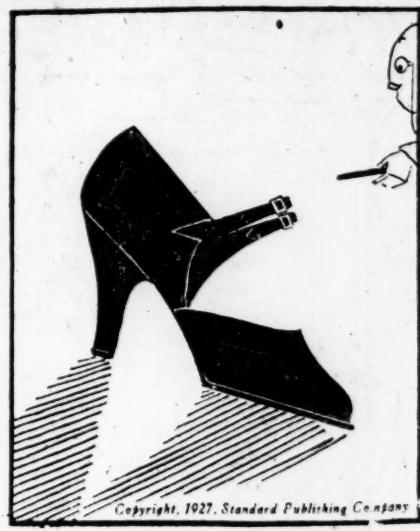

Mr. Van de View delights in aiding ladies in distress. Although the task is difficult, he does it none the less. For he's gallantry itself, nay, knightly chivalry and more. When a lady drops her bag and spills its contents on the floor.

As he stoops to pick her trinkets up he notices her shoe. A brown lizard and a calfskin combination that is new. So he tattles as he looks for them and finds them one by one. And he thinks that dropping pocketbooks more often should be done.

A seat ahead he sees another, sensible and trim. Appropriate to wear upon the street it seems to him. He gives the rouge to her and then detects the bad mistake. Politely bows and hastens his apologies to make.

Now he's in a sad abashment, he becomes the witless donor. Of a pencil to a lady sitting just behind the owner. Till discomfited completely with his eyes upon the floor. He beholds her shoes of suede, and then his calm is as before.

DIET AND HEALTH

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Overweight and Gallstones.
"By exercising I have lost a mere trifle of 126 pounds! A year ago I weighed 263, and now, by golly, I am down to 137. I am not wrinkled one bit. What do you think of that? Is it true that reducing will cause gallstones?"

MRS. H.—Some loss, Mrs. H! But you reduced quite a bit too rapidly, and apparently without taking any rest. While it may have worked ill with you, it might have worked all wrong with another. Two pounds a week is a safe loss for most; and after a loss of 25 to 35 pounds it certainly is wise to rest for a month and by resting is meant to go back to maintenance diet. You'll probably gain two or three pounds then due to water retention, but you will lose that as soon as you start dieting again. (Some physicians advise a rest after every 10 pounds lost. Judging from my experience, this is not necessary.)

The reason for not reducing more rapidly than one and one-half to two pounds a week is that a diet that will reduce more than that is too low in the elements all the tissues need. This may bring on many disorders, perhaps gallstones among them. Those who are ambitious to reduce very rapidly usually cut out all butter and cream which are very high in calories. Butter, cream and cod liver oil are the foods highest in the vitamin A; other foods that are high are milk, egg yolks, spinach, carrots, tomatoes. If you were to eat very little of all of these foods, your diet would be deficient in the vitamin A, and it has been found by animal experimentation that lack of vitamin A augments one of the reasons for gallstones, also bladder and kidney stones.

It is not an unusual thing to find that those who have reduced by insufficient diets and too rapidly do have

Mrs. H. P. Williamson, Jr., was hostess to the Lexington Avenue Civic club, at her home on Lexington avenue, S. W., Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Williamson was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. Carpenter.

Gallstones. It might be that the gallstones were there all the time and gave no symptoms or were not discoverable, until the mass of fat was removed, or they have been caused by the wrong diet. One physician who is a specialist on liver troubles tells me (and other physicians confirm this) that a large majority of the gallstone victims have been, or are, overweight; so there's no doubt at all that excess eating and under-exercising can help cause them.

If the stones are very small, they may be passed. The olive oil treatment which is advised by many laymen and pseudo-doctors, will not make them pass. Olive oil in large doses form soapy concretions in the intestines which will be passed, and filter out the gallstones. The melting test will determine whether they are stones or not, for naturally stones do not melt, and these olive oil concretions will. Of course, should there be some gallstones in the intestines they would pass with the olive oil treatment, but they would anyway.

For gallstones which are not small enough to pass through the gall bladder duct into the intestines and so on out, the only relief, as far as we know now, is surgical removal. Through feeding certain substances the stones can now be pictured by the X-ray, so your doctor could be sure of his diagnosis before operating.

Tomorrow I'll have another article on gallstones. In the meantime, those who have to reduce should get our instructions. Send a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and ten cents in stamps with request.

THE GUMPS—FULL SPEED AHEAD

They Wouldn't Believe

SYNOPSIS

On the way to Donald Briery's house at Huntington for Incheon, Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancée, tells her friend, Olive Weston, that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father.

Olive and Connie share a flat in London. Olive is secretly in love with Donald but sincerely wishes at Connie's good fortune in winning him.

Sandie and Querk, ambitious handlings of the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Briery of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Briery, Donald's father, presumed to have died on the Titanic, calls on Sandie. Querk suggests to Sandie that he invite Briery to Harrowby house and there, with the assistance of Querk's tool, Wade, dispose of Briery. Connie decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mrs. Jones is out, but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library and, going to investigate, she sees Sandie and another man kill Mr. Briery, whom she recognizes from her portrait. Rushing out of the house, Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk. While telling her story Querk pushes the bell and sends a signal to the murderers. Connie sees a policeman and, calling him, she is escorted to the library and Connie asks Querk to open the secret panel in the wall where she had seen the men place the body. It is empty. Querk accompanies her to the police station, where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Querk intimates that he imagines the scene, and, in exasperation, Connie goes to see Olive, who believes her story.

Querk requests Sandie to come to the superintendent's office, and he presents his alibi, which the officer accepts. The two lawyers proceed to Wade's office, where old man Tuttle and his son, the spurious heir, await them. The old man dies just after they walk into the office.

The next morning Connie calls on Querk and meets young Jones there. She recognizes him as her old nurse's son, but does not know that he has been posing as Henry Tuttle, Jr. Querk later pretends that Connie imagined she saw young Jones. He tells Olive that Sandie is about to bring criminal suit against Connie unless Olive, as her nearest friend, has her committed to a private institution at Maenton which he recommends. While Donald is visiting Connie at Maenton house a body is found buried in his garden. Olive, sent out on the case by her newspaper, meets and warns Donald. She arranges a hiding place for him in London. She later helps Connie to escape from Maenton.

INSTALLMENT LXXXVI.
A HARD WON HEAVEN.
Dawn was breaking when Querk and Wade arrived at Folkestone. It was broad daylight before Wade had the motorboat in a fit condition to start.

Querk staggered into the cabin and sank on to a settee. The boat tossed, then shuddered as the propeller swung free of the water. The shudder passed through Querk's body to his soul. He crunched on the floor where he had been flung, trembling, a prey to terror.

"Take your seats, please! Take your seats, please! Are you traveling, miss?"

"No," said Olive to the guard. "I'll be off in half a tick."

The three of them were standing in a first-class compartment at Paddington station.

"I must go now. Goodbye, darling!"

For a moment the two girls were locked in one another's arms.

"Let me be the first to see you when you come back from your honeymoon," whispered Olive. And then: "Goodbye, Don."

She held out her hand and he crushed it.

"You'll be with us all the time, you know," he said thickly. "You're a part of us, and will be all our lives."

Olive tore her eyes from his face. "Funny how at wedding seems to even the best of men sentimental!" she laughed, and jumped to the platform.

There followed a period of waiting for the train to start. Olive's thoughts raced. In that moment of parting from Connie and Don as they sat forth on their honeymoon, every act in the tortured drama they had lived through seemed to flash before her eyes.

"Don't make a duty of writing," she urged, but could not hear Connie's assurances. They were going to their hard won heaven, these two—and it was she who had won it for them.

Pictures flashed and danced before her eyes. The last vivid picture of herself running from Sandie's flat for a doctor at the rain effects of the doctor. The rest were all dull—pictures of the aftermath. There was a picture of Donald being brought up before the magistrate when the police formally announced that they would offer no evidence, and he left the court with cheers. There was the account coming over the wires of the Record, Querk's motorboat wrecked in a sudden squall on its way from Folkestone to Boulogne. And then there was Rason telling her that the police would take no action in the matter of Ned Jones.

Then there were those tedious days in which she and Connie had accompanied Donald to court before the Harrowby fortune was definitely and legally made over to him. There were more pleasant days of unwearied discussions about schemes for devoting the bulk of the fortune to helping others.

A whistle blew and she stood back a pace, taking out her handkerchief in readiness to wipe to them. There was a last exchange of good-bys—a last handshake from Don from the already moving train. Tears were in Connie's eyes, tears of happiness—how sweet she looked in her dark furs and simple "going away" dress, with no adornment but her own radiant, quivering smile and the gold band on her finger. Olive's own left hand clenched emptily. Her right hand was waved in farewell.

She was waving her handkerchief although she could see little through the mist that had come before her eyes. It was her hour of supreme triumph. She had fought, lied, cheated to give the man she loved to another. In the fast disappearing train now bloomed the flower of her sacrifice.

She felt a light touch on her arm, turned and faced Detective Inspector Rason. For a moment he looked at her intensely. She saw that he was pale. She wondered what he was going to say to her.

When he spoke she was more startled than she had ever been in her adventurous young life.

"A wedding makes the best men sentimental," he quoted huskily. "Heaven forgive me if I am sentimental—but I love you."

For an instant Olive was moved. There was something vigorous and direct about the proposal that she should—something infinitely appropriate in the fact that she, who believed that she destined romance, should receive a proposal of marriage on the platform of a railway station. She was moved—but only for a moment.

"That's most awfully decent of you," she said at last. "It's an old gag to say that I'm honored, but I am."

"Put me out of my misery!" begged Rason.

"Right! I like you ever so much, too much to give you—what you know would have been offered to another man."

"I'd be content with anything you could give me."

"And I wouldn't be content to give you anything short of everything. And that I cannot give. O, thank you, thank you for asking me, my dear friend! But I'm not out for wifehood, you know. I've found that out quite recently. My destiny is to be a vigorous, aggressive, successful, rather charming old maid."

"How old are you?" asked Rason almost roughly.

"Twenty-seven," she answered.

"I am disappointed," he said, but there was no depression in his voice as he spoke.

"You might have the decency to be heart broken," she said with the old taunting courage.

"I shall be if you give me the same answer when you are thirty-seven," he answered. "I shall ask you every year, Olive—and not necessarily, once a year. You're not the only one with girl, you know, you—ma'am, you! Now, come along and have some tea somewhere. And then I can begin my ten years' campaign by asking you again."

THE END.

LIVESTOCK.—The cumulative effect of the various bullish forecasts which have been sent out in the last few weeks by leaders in political and business circles finally had its full effect on the market this afternoon and the heaviest buying in some months developed in all leading institutions. The price gains were secured by a large number of stocks. The movement of the market was particularly significant following, as it did, the increase in farmers' loans to a new record high. This for a time is not likely to pay much effect on the brokers' loans unless they begin to affect the credit market, which is unlikely. Fulton Carbine continued a free demand for General Motors and Ford. A number of medium-priced stocks such as International Paper, Archer-Daniels-Midland, Chrysler, Nash, Congoleum and Gulf, were in heavy demand. The market is discounting prospects for 1928 and the prospects of easy money and improvbusiness there is no reason why the upward movement in a good many stocks should not continue. GEORGIA AVE. CHURCH CANDLE TO PREACH TO DEDICATE BUILDING AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Dedication of the new church building of the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church will take place Sunday morning at 11 o'clock with exercises in charge of Rev. Robert Ivy, pastor of the church. The new building will be dedicated to the memory of the late Rev. Robert Ivy, pastor of the church, who died in 1926. The history of the Georgia Avenue church is recounted by the pastor, who says:

During September, 1884, several members of the Central Presbyterian church, of Atlanta, made a canvass of what was then the southwestern border of Atlanta, which resulted in the establishment of a mission, Sunday school October 19, 1884, on the corner of Anderson and Reed streets in a small, rented house.

Rapid growth of this mission caused the erection three years later of the Rankin Mission chapel. Later, the chapel was removed to Reed and Martin streets. The church, itself, was created out of the chapel on February 25, 1890.

A lot was purchased on the corner of Georgia avenue and Grant street, and the church building was erected. Just before the building was ready for occupancy, it was destroyed by lightning. Another one was constructed and occupied October 18, 1903.

This church building, in 1921, was destroyed by fire, thought to have resulted from defective wiring. The program for the present church was then started, and has recently been completed.

On the eve of his golden anniversary, Bishop Warren A. Candler, senior churchman of Southern Methodist and for two decades one of the south's foremost educators, will preach at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night before the congregation of the St. Paul's Methodist church. It was announced Friday by Rev. E. F. Fraser, pastor.

Bishop Candler, who, with Mrs. Candler, will observe his fiftieth wedding anniversary Monday night at the Baltimore hotel, is a former chancellor of Emory university and an author whose writings on religious subjects are of international note.

The bishop celebrated his seventieth birthday a few weeks ago, and a wide circle of friends and relatives joined enthusiastically to make the observance an auspicious one.
